President Arrives at His Warm Springs Home and Awaits Repercussions

DEMANDS LOW RATES

Improved Economic Outlook Reflected in Address in Tennessee Valley

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 19.—(UP)—President Roosevelt settled back in his little Georgia White House today awaiting reaction to a new creed of the New Deal—community operation of power utilities.

His definite declaration of policy in a speech at Tupelo, Miss., was that the close administration friends as carrying a challenge to private industry rather than an act of direct action.

"It means," one of them said, "that the private companies either play ball in providing cheap power or else..."

The inference was that the government would see to it that low rates were made available.

Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncement came as a climax to a three-day inspection of the Tennessee Valley development—a tour that convinced him of its future value alone.

NEGRO CONFESSES MURDER OF GIRLS

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 19.—(UP)—Phillip Jones, 25-year-old Negro confessed to police today that he murdered Alice and Ellen Hill, sisters, last night at Clifton Forge.

He was charged with murder and immediately removed from Roanoke to an unknown destination. Police feared mob violence.

There was evidence of a terrific struggle. The older girl's body bore marks, indicating she had tried to defend herself.

The last time the girls were seen alive was about 11 a. m. Sunday. Officers learned they left home at that hour in response to a telephone call asking them to go to the Scott farm, on the edge of town.

TRAFFIC DEATHS IN STATE ON INCREASE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 19.—(UP)—Despite the fact safety campaigns were conducted throughout the state during September there were more traffic deaths than in any other month of 1934 reports of the California highway patrol revealed.

Figures compiled by the statistical division showed 257 persons were killed during the month, bringing the total for 1934 up to 1975. This represented an increase of 313 over the like period of 1933.

Excessive speed and intoxicated drivers were blamed for most of the accidents.

Powerful Lobby Not In Politics

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—(UP)—As an organized, powerful lobby and not another political party, the new National Union for Social Justice intends to tell congress what laws it wants passed, the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin said Sunday.

In his radio speech amplifying details of the voluntary, non-fee union which he hopes will attract 5,000,000 members, the priest said it would fight for a fairer distribution of wealth and profits, and for the social principles capitalism has ignored.

"This is no new political party any more than the United States Steel Trust or the United States Chamber of Commerce or the American Bankers' association or the coal or oil or textile interests constitute party," despite the fact that they retain powerful lobbies at Washington," he declared.

RETIRED PAPAL SECRETARY OF STATE PASSES

Cardinal Gaspari Dies in Night of Pneumonia; Nation Mourns

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 19.—(UP)—The Roman church, and Italian people today mourned Pietro Cardinal Gaspari, retired papal secretary of state, who died last night of pneumonia.

Cardinal Gaspari's funeral will be the most imposing accorded any cardinal in modern times, with the highest ecclesiastical and civil honors.

The funeral will be held by the pope's order, at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the spacious Church of St. Ignatius. Burial will be in the cardinal's birthplace at Ussita, in a marble tomb already completed to his order.

The Italian government, for decades estranged from the Vatican until the negotiations under Cardinal Gaspari of the 1929 treaty, will be represented officially, and Premier Benito Mussolini probably will be at the head of his attending ministers. King Victor Emmanuel, just completing a visit to Somaliland, will be represented by a royal prince.

Cardinal Gaspari, Cardinal Gaspari's successor as secretary of state, will succeed him also as camerlengo of the Holy Roman church, which Cardinal Gaspari held under two popes as he did his foreign ministry. This dignity acts as ruler of the church during the interval between the death of a pope, and the election of a new one.

Giving instructions for the funeral today, the pope expressed sorrow that "this great cardinal is lost to the church just at the moment of the glorification of his work as a diplomat."

The cardinal's body lay in state in the throne room of his palace today, in his purple robes and biretta. Tomorrow evening the body will be dressed in his pontifical robes of white and gold with a gold mitre and a bishop's staff in hand.

From boyhood, the cardinal's career had been brilliant. He won high honors in school. He became professor of canon law in the Urban College of the Propaganda Fide.

In 1907 Pope Pius X entrusted him with the codification—a monumental task—and a few months later made him a cardinal.

* It was in 1914 that he became secretary of state. In that capacity he had direct charge of the Vatican's peace efforts during the war.

Cardinal Gaspari became known as a superbly skillful diplomatist, and when Pope Pius XI ascended in 1922 he remained as secretary of state—a most unusual honor.

It became apparent yesterday that he was dying. Enrico Cardinal Gaspari, his nephew, administered the last rites. Blood transfusions and oxygen were of no avail.

HIGH TRIBUNAL TO HEAR GOLD VALIDITY CASE

Supreme Court Sets Jan. 8 for Hearing Arguments in Four Cases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(UP)—The supreme court today set January 8 for hearing argument on four cases involving validity of the gold clause in governmental and private obligations.

The court acted on the application of Solicitor General J. Crawford Biggs, who asked that all four cases which involve the gold clause and the validity of devaluations in congressional and presidential acts be heard at one time.

The government has intervened in two of the cases and is directly involved in two others.

The first involving the validity of the gold clause in bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, would normally come up for argument in December.

Biggs explained that in addition to the Baltimore and Ohio case the government and the railroad construction finance corporation were interested in cases involving securities of the Missouri Pacific railroad now in reorganization and in two cases set aside to the supreme court last week by the court of claims.

The court of claims cases involve the right of a holder of gold certificates to collect in currency at the rate of $162 and the other involves a similar right sought by a holder of Liberty bonds which have been called for redemption.

FOOD IS RUSHED TO VICTIMS OF FLOODS

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 19.—(UP)—Relief workers rushed food and medical supplies today to Mauban, Tyabas province, where at least 50 persons are dead and scores are missing in floods which followed a typhoon.

The need for food was acute. Only 29 sacks of rice were available in Mauban area.

Mountain streams, swollen to unprecedented currents by rain accompanying the typhoon, washed out a large section of the provincial village. Mauban appeared hardest hit of any section in the southern part of the island of Luzon, which was in the path of last week's storm.

Government agencies estimated that at least 100 persons lost their lives and as many more are missing in the entire area visited by the typhoon.

N. Y. ELEVATOR OPERATORS TO BE CALLED OUT

Strike Order Will Be Issued This Afternoon Or on Tuesday

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(UP)—A strike call for elevator operators and other employees of New York City's forest of skyscrapers will be issued this afternoon or tomorrow, union headquarters said today.

Union officials declared 50,000 workers would respond, paralyzing office buildings and apartment houses where hundreds of thousands work and live.

James J. Bambrick, president of the Building Service Employees International union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, announced that the strike was a certainty. He refused to state the time of the walkout, wishing to take building owners by surprise.

The owners said nothing, but their elaborate preparations verified Bambrick's certainty that the strike would materialize. They were known to have several thousand strike-breakers and guards, many of the latter with pistol permits, ready to rush into the skyscrapers the moment the union men walked out.

No authoritative estimate of the probable effectiveness of a strike could be obtained. Building owners said only a comparative few of their employees were union members and only a comparative few wanted to strike. Union men said 50,000 workers would respond at once and that within a few days practically all building workers in New York would join them.

The same union called a strike in the garment district Nov. 1 that affected 400 buildings. This strike was ended by a temporary truce. The union demands a closed shop, minimum wages of $30 a week, a 40-hour week, an 8-hour day, and arbitration. The strike call will affect engineers, watchmen, and janitors in addition to elevator operators.

Police sent heavy details into the Wall Street area at the south end of Manhattan Island, and to the mid-town and garment district areas, where first violence was expected when the strike call came.

Ben Golden, chief examiner of the regional labor board, said he was continuing his efforts to settle the dispute, but admitted there was little he could do.

SCOTLAND YARD TO WATCH AT WEDDING

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Scotland Yard is completing the most elaborate precautions in London's history for the safety of royalty at the wedding of November 29, of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece.

Hundreds of hotels were canvassed and the lists of guests checked.

Managers were asked to inform police if there is the slightest ground for suspicion that any later arrivals might be continental terrorists.

One hundred key positions for filming and taking pictures of the procession were allotted to photographers known to authorities. None will be permitted to take pictures from step-ladders.

JESSE JONES ASKS FOR COOPERATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(UP)—RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones today called upon industry and business "to forget their fears" and co-operate with the government in a drive for permanent recovery.

Praising the recent New Deal cooperative stands of the American Bankers Association and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Jones said, "for a good many months I have felt that business and industry should go ahead with confidence. This should do more to stimulate recovery than any other thing I know."

At the same time, Jones made public the monthly RFC report for October showing that the RFC had authorized 116 loans totalling $54,200,483 to banks and trust companies, railroads and mortgage loan companies.

Former Montana Senator Passes

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Funeral services will be conducted here tomorrow for former Senator Lee Mantele of Montana who died of a sudden heart attack at his home yesterday.

Mantele was 83 and for half a century was a Republican leader in Montana which sent him to the senate in 1898 for one term. He founded the Butte Inter-mountain in 1881 and operated it as a Republican organ for 20 years.

The body will be returned to Butte for burial.

Seven Other Persons Are Badly Hurt

Traffic Accidents Mount to 52 for Year; Rainy Pavements Blamed

RAIN-BLURRED windshields and slippery pavements were mainly responsible for the seven traffic accidents in Orange County over the weekend, which cost the life of one man and brought injury to seven other persons.

With the death of Delmar A. Thompson, 19, San Diego sailor from the U. S. S. Ellis, antedates in the county this year stood at 52, as compared to 48 at this time last year and 79 at this time in 1932. There were only 56 for the entire year of 1933.

Thompson was killed at 7:20 o'clock last night as he was walking south on the coast highway north of Dana Point. According to W. E. White, 44, Box 23, Three Arches, driver of the car which struck Thompson in the rain, the pedestrian was walking on the wrong side of the road. White was not held by Coroner Earl Abbey.

An inquest will be held later at the Laguna Beach funeral home.

Three persons were hurt at 9:30 o'clock last night on the Coast highway near Newport Beach when cars driven by Ruth Hunt, 24, Long Beach and Robert Garcia, 27, Los Angeles, collided head-on. Those injured were Garcia, Anna Garcia, 25, and Irene Nikkie, 22, all of Los Angeles.

Homer King, of Buena Park, was hurt at midnight Saturday when his car was struck by a machine driven by Earl Emeric, 34, Buena Park. King was backing his car from a parking place on Grand avenue in Buena Park.

A pedestrian, believed to be George Blake, Second and Birch streets, was hurt last night when struck by a car driven by Raymond J. Wilkins, 36, 619 South Main street, on West First street near Bolsa. Wilkins said that the pedestrian was intoxicated and was walking on the wrong side of the road. Lights from an approaching car blinded him just before the impact, Wilkins reported.

HARRY LANGDON IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Harry Langdon, film comedian, was accused of cruelty, desertion, non-support and intemperance in a divorce suit filed by his second wife, Helen, today.

Mrs. Langdon, in bringing the action, disregarded the fact that Langdon obtained a decree of divorce from her in Mexico and has since married Mrs. Mabel Langdon.

Four years ago Mrs. Helen Langdon figured in a sensational law suit which her first husband, Thomas J. O'Brien, brought against the comedian over her affections. That suit was brought about when Langdon, threatened with an alienation of affections suit by O'Brien, attempted to settle the matter out of court by payment of some cash and giving promissory notes for other sums.

WILLARD MACK IS CALLED BY DEATH

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Willard Mack, veteran actor, playwright and film director, died today at his Beverly Hills home of a sudden heart attack. He was 61.

He had been in good health until a few days ago when he suffered a slight illness. His condition, however, was not alarming until late last night.

Early today, he collapsed from the heart ailment and died with his fourth wife, the former Beatrice Baynard, beside him.

Mack was one of the most versatile figures in the theatrical world.

During his career on the stage he wrote 36 plays, 24 of which appeared on Broadway.

KIDNAPED BOY IS RETURNED TO HOME

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(UP)—Four-year-old Jackie Gibbons was returned unharmed to his parents in Lexington, Ky., today and a girl who gave her name as Bernice Lou Gibbons, 20, of Cincinnati, was held on a charge of kidnapping the boy.

Lexington detectives took Jackie to his home last night. Department of justice agents were expected to follow today with the girl. The federal officers were expected to withdraw from the case at that point since no ransom reward was involved in the alleged abduction.

The girl told officers she encountered the boy playing on a street in Lexington Thursday. She gave him some candy, she said, and he insisted on following her. She said she ordered the boy back several times but finally "became afraid and decided to take him along."

TRACTION MEN VOTE STRIKE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Heralding the possibility of a tieup of all metropolitan street car and bus lines, traction employees of the Pacific Electric company voted overwhelmingly today for strike for additional pay, union officials announced today.

The Pacific Electric serves interurban communities, including Hollywood. The union poll was made among 1109 union employees and 400 non-unionists. Employees covered by the vote include conductors, motormen, one-man car operators, trailer conductors, brakemen, switch tenders and trolley men.

COUPLE SEEKING HAPPINESS ON ISOLATED ISLAND FOUND DEAD, STARVATION VICTIMS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Starvation and thirst on a barren, volcanic island off the coast of Ecuador have ended the Adam and Eve existence of a man and woman believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wittmer, who sought happiness in an isolated Eden.

Discovery of two bodies on one of the most desolate islands of the Galapagos group was reported by radio by Capt. Manuel Rodriguez of San Diego, skipper of the tuna clipper Santo Amaro.

A bundle of baby's clothing lay near the victims but no third body was found.

From a description of the bodies, Capt. G. Allen Hancock, Los Angeles oil magnate and amateur scientist, said he was convinced the victims were the Wittmers, a German couple who found happiness and parenthood on Charles Island. Their child, a son, was 2 years old when Hancock visited.

A graphic struggle against hunger and thirst was depicted in brief advices the tuna clipper radioed here.

Craft Destroyed
Apparently, the two set out in a small skiff to visit another island when a violent storm dashed their frail craft against the beach of Marcheno Island, one of the most isolated of the Galapagos group.

Without food or water, they sought shelter from the sun. Their

PARAGUAY SOLDIERS ADVANCE FOR ATTACK ON FORTS NEAR GRAN CHACO

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Paraguay soldiers, advancing over soil where thousands of their enemies and comrades fell, were believed today to be preparing to attack the last Bolivian forts in the whole Bolivian sector.

The solidity and importance of their victory in their capture of Fort Ballivian and surrounding, supporting forts, seemed certain. Before them lay the rich Gran Chaco oil fields and Paraguayans believed that successful defense would be impossible.

Fort Ballivian fell before the sixth attack by Paraguayans. Dispatches from the front described the scene. They crossed a no-man's land in front of the fort on which lay the bodies of hundreds of men. They went through ten lines of trenches, set 1100 yards apart—trenches, it seemed that

BYRD PARTY GIVEN ADVICE BY PLANE

LITTLE AMERICA, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Harold I. June, chief pilot of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, made a flight last night over the eastern area where a tractor party is snared among treacherous ice crevasses and unable to advance.

June reported that the party had passed many crevasses on the trip east, and would have difficulty in making its way back. It was impossible to advance further, he said.

The flight, June said, confirmed the opinion of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, after a flight Thursday, that there is a sea level passage which divides the land masses of the so called Pacific quadrant from the Queen Maud mountain range, and that it may prove that the Antarctic is divided at that point and is not a single unbroken continent.

Japanese Ambassador Will Demand Absolute Equality With U. S., British

TO DENOUNCE TREATY

France, Italy, England and United States May Join Pact if Japan Retires

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Ambassador Taneoe Matsudaira was expected late today to advise Sir John Simon, foreign minister, formally that Japan rejects a British compromise proposal for naval limitation and to demand absolute equality with the United States and Great Britain.

British sources said they were still hopeful that negotiations could be continued usefully, as a basis for the big naval conference set for next year.

There has been increasing demand here for a British-American understanding, however, in the event that negotiations with Japan fail; or perhaps for a four power treaty embracing France and Italy.

The Marquess of Lothian, who as Philip Kerr was secretary to former Prime Minister David Lloyd George, and is credited with having influenced with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, argued strongly for British-American cooperation in a newspaper article yesterday. Norman H. Davis, chief American naval delegate, was a week end guest at Lord Lothian's country home a week ago.

Private advices received from Tokyo indicated that the expected Japanese denunciation of the Washington naval treaty could be made early next month, and that the Japanese government at the same time would issue a proclamation deprecating the idea of a naval race, urging cooperation in the interest of peace and proposing that the 1935 conference be held despite its denunciation.

BOARD SEEKING TO PREVENT WALKOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Marcus Sloss, appointed seventh member of the joint employer-laborshoremen industrial relations board, today took up the task of reconciling differences which threaten a new waterfront strike.

Sloss was named by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins for the difficult assignment of pacifying the warring factions, each of which blames the other for the 17 minor strikes since the arbitration award in the waterfront dispute.

The International Longshoremen's association to which the majority of longshore workers belong, will hold a meeting of its local membership tonight. Denying that the session is called to consider a strike vote, leaders of the union said that the meeting will have important bearing on present difficulties.

HOLD "LAMSON SERVICES"
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Services in nine churches, observing "Lamson Sunday" gave impetus today to a committee working for the release of David Lamson, Stanford university man charged with slaying his wife.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Nov. 19.—(UP)—King Carol narrowly escaped death today while motorizing in Cales Victorial, one of the principal thoroughfares of the capital.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today denied pleas of 11 defendants in the Insull mail fraud trial for directed verdicts of acquittal.

Similar pleas by the six other defendants, including Samuel Insull and his son, were denied Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(UP)—Excitement of death threats received by fellow jurors in the clean-up drive against graft and gambling and the tension of an hourly expected climax in the District Attorney Buren Fitts inquiry, resulted in the collapse of Mrs. Mae Cushman, a member of the grand jury, shortly after noon today.

HOLD TELEGRAM SENDER FOR OBSERVATION

Incoherent telegrams sent to Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were responsible Saturday for the arrest of William Reuper, 61, 1875 Chapman avenue, Orange, and his confinement in the Orange county hospital for observation, pending the result of a search to find possible fingerprints of the man in state and federal files.

The telegrams were rambling and incoherent but police feel that there might be a possible hidden meaning which does not appear on the surface. He wrote the telegrams in the letter shop of Mrs. A. C. Crawford, 515 North Main street, who reported the matter to the police. Numerous other peculiar letters and telegrams were found in his pockets to indicate that he has been in Orange county about five months.

The Lindbergh telegram read as follows: "Something wrong material atmosphere to life in action more to it. H. E. A. identification of creation American north and south."

Another telegram sent recently to Mrs. Roosevelt said, "World's property of nature running from two months to sixty-one years for identification temperature blood and colors blood on it prison and held police say keep United States out of it high court says no letter writing."

Reuper's fingerprints have been sent to Sacramento and Washington to see if he has a previous criminal record.

UTOPIAN MEETING SCHEDULED TONIGHT

A large group is expected to attend a meeting called for fourth and fifth cycle Utopian members tonight at 1626 South Main street, according to Sydney Wilde, supervisor for the Santa Ana district. The meeting tonight is called to outline cycle work and for consolidating membership. Under authority recently granted, supervisors were elected by membership vote, with the right to organize locally to a certain extent, Wilde said. House meetings as a means of creating interest and qualifying members will be discussed.

Valuable Ring Is Recovered In L. A.

Mrs. Milburn Harvey, 220 South Parton street, who had a valuable diamond and sapphire ring stolen on November 11, had the ring returned to her Saturday after police had located a suspect in the case.

The ring was found in a Los Angeles pawn shop on information secured from a former employee of Mrs. Harvey. No prosecutions are to be made in the case, it was stated.

WILL ROGERS says:

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 19. (To the Editor of The Register.) With all the "haywire" ideas we have, every once in a while we hit on a good one, like old age pensions (which is sure to come at the next Congress.)

Well, I was down to the Los Angeles live stock show, and I saw these hundreds of farmers' boys that had fattened and cared for a calf, or a pig, or sheep, themselves, it's a thing called the 4H Club. Somebody was inspired when they founded that, it's all over the country. By golly, they are a great bunch of kids, and don't they have some fine stock, look how young and he is starting in his business. We got the most thorough training in every line of business in this country but statesmanship, and that you just decide overnight yourself. "I am a statesman."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

SAILOR KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE AT DANA POINT

Richard Cortez, 227 Pomona avenue, Fullerton, was hurt Saturday night when his car was struck by a machine driven by Mrs. Evelyn Manning, 908 North Olive street, Fullerton, at Elm street and South Spadra road, according to police reports. The Cortez car was stalled at the side of the road in the rain. After being given emergency treatment at the Fullerton General hospital for concussion and a possible fractured knee, Cortez was transferred to the Orange County hospital.

Arthur D. Roberts, Santa Ana, was slightly hurt at 1 a. m. yesterday when his car was overturned in an orange grove at McFadden and Standard streets, after being struck by a machine driven by Hector Tarongio, 440 North Cypress street, Orange. Tarongio told Santa Ana police that he failed to make a boulevard stop and hit the other car. He was given a citation for failing to have an operator's license.

No one was hurt when a car driven by Mrs. H. M. Young, 1136 West Pine street, was struck by a Motor Transit bus as both vehicles were turning south on Seventeenth and Flower streets Saturday afternoon. The Young car was struck broadside by the bus.

DRUNK DRIVING CASE BEFORE JURY TODAY

Detective Sergeant A. L. Steward, or the Santa Ana police department was called to the witness stand today in Superior Judge G. K. Seavey's court to open the prosecution's case against Newell Lucas, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

A jury was empaneled to hear the evidence, which dealt with the arrest of Lucas at Bristol and Fairview streets, Santa Ana, last August 8. Deputy District Attorney Eugene Walker is conducting the prosecution, with Thomas E. Pickering appearing for the defense. Members of the jury include: Mrs. Rena G. Borchard, Mrs. Mae Nelson, Amos Cox, David W. Mann, Mrs. Margaret Faerber, Alfred Smith, Mrs. May C. Carter, Mrs. Ted Craig, Mrs. Florabelle Sage, Mrs. Vina Gosme, D. W. Gregory and W. E. Gates.

Police Searching For Change Artist

A short change artist who took $4 from the Fourth Street market, 311 East Fourth street, shortly before noon Saturday, was being sought today by police.

A well dressed man of 40 years, bought 21 cents of bakery goods and tendered a $10 bill to Miss Karla Nielsen, cashier. After accepting the change, he found he had a $1 bill and asked for the $10 back in the form of five $1 bills and a $5 bill. When he had left the store, the employee found that he had swindled her of $4.

She told officers that he was about 5 feet 9 inches tall, had a cataract on one eye, and was of light complexion.

Resume Trial Of Suit For Damages

Superior Judge H. G. Ames today resumed trial of the $26,250 damage suit brought by T. E. Pinching against J. Z. Wright, of Huntington Beach, for injuries received by Pinching when his motorcycle collided with a backing automobile operated by Wright at Seventeenth street and Coast boulevard, Huntington Beach, last March 12.

Pinching suffered a broken leg and other injuries in the accident. Congressman John H. Burke, of Long Beach, is his attorney, M. G. Harvey, of Santa Ana, acting as counsel for Wright. The trial opened last Thursday, but adjourned over the week-end.

NEW POLICY IS FORECAST IN SUNDAY TALK

as a rate bargaining instrument between the people and private utilities.

Cites Example
The chief executive in setting forth his views took his cue from the little city of Tupelo, the first in the nation to contract for TVA power. Holding it up as an example to other communities, he observed:

"I can use you as a text—a text that may be useful to many other parts of the nation, because people's eyes are upon you and because of what you are doing here is going to be copied in every state of the union before we get through. We recognize that there will be a certain amount of—what shall I say?—fuged opposition to this development—but I think we recognize also that the opposition is fading as the weeks and months go by, fading in the light of practical experience."

Goes To Alabama
From Tupelo the president moved into Alabama, carrying his fight for the TVA into Birmingham, hub of the industrial south; there he took note of opposition to the project, saying:

"I am aware of course, that a few of your citizenry are leaving no stone unturned to block and harass and to delay this great national program. I am confident, however, that these obstructionists, few in number in comparison with the whole population, do not reflect the views of the overwhelming majority of the people of Birmingham or the other cities where they reside."

"I know, too, that the overwhelmingly majority of your business men, big and little, are in hearty accord with the great undertaking of regional planning now being carried forward."

"I particularly bespeak of the people of Birmingham an active co-operation with the Tennessee valley authority."

In the Tupelo address Mr. Roosevelt also spoke strongly of an improved economic outlook which he read was reflected in the people and noticed as he entered Kentucky.

Players In Need Of Churn and Old Pioneer Costumes

With production dates so near for "Green Grow the Lilacs," Santa Ana Community Players' opening drama of the season, members of the cast and their director, Gladys Simpson Shafer, find themselves in urgent need of a few properties for the correct presentation of the play.

Chief among these is an old-fashioned churn, and so far their search for this has been unsuccessful.

"If there is anyone in the community who chances to own such a churn, or knows where one might be obtained for the two nights of the play (Friday and Saturday), it would be very much appreciated by the Players to receive such information," Mrs. Shafer said.

40 Entries For Rose Tournament Parade Received

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 19.—Growing day by day as entries from the various cities and organizations within the state are received, the 1935 Tournament of Roses promises to surpass in size and elaborate details of the floats any Tournament parade held so far. More than 40 entries have been received to date and others are expected within the next few days, according to word received today by the Tournament of Roses association.

The theme, "Golden Legends," in which the oft-told tales of many peoples and many countries will be portrayed through the medium of flowers, has caught the imagination of designers and builders alike and creations of surpassing beauty and design are already being developed.

South American Pictures To Be Shown by Lewis

Harry W. Lewis, of Santa Ana, will show more than 100 new colored slides of the west coast of South America as far south as Valparaiso, Santiago, and the Straits of Magellan, at the regular weekly travel class meeting at Julia Lathrop junior high school, 1200 South Main street, at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night. It was announced today.

The class meetings are sponsored by the adult education department night school, and the programs are arranged by Julia Ann Hyde, manager of the travel bureau of the Commercial National bank. The public is invited and there is no charge.

LACK OF FUNDS MAY FORCE CLOSING OF SALVATION ARMY SHELTER FOR MEN

A total of $5465 out of the $8100 goal set has been reached in the three-in-one campaign for funds for the operation of the Salvation Army, Ruth Home and Crippled Children's association, it was announced today following a meeting of the board of directors of the Salvation Army advisory committee.

Judge J. G. Mitchell, chairman of the Army board, declared that unless local persons who have not contributed do so and the goal is not reached by December 1, the local Shelter for men will be closed.

Closing of the Shelter, it was pointed out, would create a menace and place the burden of caring for transient men on the police. Care of transients by the police would be costly and would have to be paid by taxation, it was said.

The advisory board does not want to close the shelter, and addressed an appeal to residents of Santa Ana to respond to the emergency by sending their contributions to Alex Brownridge, treasurer, or to Captain Gallipio of the Salvation Army. At the same time the committee in charge of the drive thanked all those who have subscribed so far.

A statement from the board today follows: "The board wishes to announce to the citizens of Santa Ana that a very critical condition prevails in the problem of the transient homeless man who is taken care of entirely by and through the Salvation Army Shelter. The number is increasing and the majority of those being given wrecked skiff was erected as a roof. They averted starvation, momentarily at least, by killing a seal. Decayed remnants of the mammal were found. But there was no water.

It was believed they fought thirst for days before succumbing. The man died first. This was attested by the fact that his body was dragged under the lee of the boat and covered with articles of his mate's clothing. His head was pillowed on her coat. A strip of the lining was carefully laid over his face.

Her heroism ended, the woman dragged herself out of sight of the body and died. Her body was clad only in lingerie.

A weather-beaten rug fluttered from a crudely constructed flagpole which was jammed in a crevice of a lava formation. It was this distress signal that supposedly attracted a landing party from the tuna clipper.

Letters Found
A bundle of letters found near the bodies gave a clue to their identity. Several were signed by Margaret Wittmer. A German passport, found in the man's coat, carried the name of Alfred Rudolph Lorenz of Paris, France. Lorenz had been a fellow-exile on Charles Island but, according to Hancock, returned to France some time ago. Hancock also said the man's body did not fit the description of the Parisian.

Additional proof that the victim was not Lorenz was contained in another letter signed by Mrs. Wittmer. Addressed to a friend in Germany, it stated in part: "I must hurry this letter through because Mr. Lorenz is waiting in the sloop to take the mail to Santa

CHANDLER'S LISTS CONTEST WINNERS

Chandler's Furniture store, Third and Main streets, today announced winners in the local division of the national Congoleum Mickey Mouse answer contest.

First prize, a $12 Gold Seal Congoleum rug, was awarded to Miss Dorothy Hankey, 415 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, whose answer was "Gold for worth. Seal for pledge. The pledge of worth on a ware that wears."

Second prize winner was Jane McKee, 125 West Nineteenth street, Santa Ana, while winner of the third prize was Alfred C. Bonney, 206 North Main street, Santa Ana.

Winner of the first prize gets her entry in the national Congoleum contest, in which five Ford V-8 automobiles will be given away.

Local Persimmon Causes Comment In Ohio Paper

A large California persimmon, measuring 11 inches in circumference and weighing 11 ounces, sent by her son, H. T. Calhoun, of Santa Ana, to Mrs. Ladotia Calhoun of Gallipolis, Ohio, created considerable interest in the office of the Gallipolis Tribune, where it was taken by Mrs. Calhoun, according to a clipping from that paper.

The Tribune remarked that it was the biggest persimmon ever seen there. "It may be a Japanese date plum," The Tribune said, "but whatever it may be called, it looks like an Ohio 'simmon, has a persimmon flavor but is not astringent."

LAST STAND IN BOLIVIAN OIL FIELD PLANNED

revalued those of the Germans in the world war, with every provision for defense and comfort including subways. Every 100 yards there was a nest of machine guns constructed from the Chaco jungle wood Quebracho, nearly as hard as cement.

Now before them were the Forts Canada, Strongest and Caranday, the last two really strong defenses in the Chaco.

The Bolivians were expected to retreat to Villa Montes, 120 miles northwest of Ballivian, and make a stand in the hilly country there. Paraguayans doubted, however, that defense would be possible first because of the demoralization of the Bolivian defenders and secondly because of the importance of the Paraguayan booty in war materials.

Figures On Crime Cost, Delinquency Given by Doctor

Cost of crime and juvenile delinquency in California and factors relating to each were discussed by Dr. Edward L. Russell, assistant county health officer, at the last meeting of the League of Women Voters.

In discussing the cost of caring for delinquents in state institutions and the cost of providing for mentally defective and feeble-minded institutions, the speaker brought out that the total cost of crime is 13 millions per year and the estimated cost of delinquency is between two and three millions annually.

State institutions, he said, are from 10 to 80 per cent overcrowded with many on the waiting list. The birthrate of superior or normal persons is 2.1 children in the family for the average, he said, while defectives have from 3.8 to 6.5 children in the family.

Dr. Russell suggested that some changes be made in the sterilization law in order to reduce cost and to facilitate the application of the law.

In a short business session, the appointment of Mrs. Beaulah Rule as membership chairman was ratified.

Investigate Theft At Three Arches

Sheriff's officers are investigating the burglary of the South Laguna Inn at Three Arches on last Thursday following a report Saturday that a total of $20 in cash and merchandise was stolen.

After using a pass key to gain entrance, the thief stole $19.20 from the cash register, took $12 from punchboard receipts, broke open two marble games and a cigar vendor, and took 15 bottles of beer. The burglary is being investigated by Constable C. R. Clapp of Laguna Beach and Deputy Sheriff R. R. Lutes.

MAN ROBBED OF $49 WHILE SLEEPING

Currency and silver totalling $49 were stolen Saturday morning from the clothing of E. A. Jack, 312 Halesworth street, while he was asleep in his room. It was reported to police over the weekend.

Jack declared that a billfold containing $45 was taken from his trousers and that $4 in silver was stolen from his vest. There was no indication of how the alleged thief gained entrance to the room, according to police.

H. S. Girl Reserves Give First Group Pledge to Y.W.C.A.

The Santa Ana high school Girl Reserves headed the group subscription list in the local Y.W.C.A. drive for funds, today after 160 workers started solicitation in the field Saturday it was announced today.

The Girl Reserves' subscription amounted to $25. It was announced, and the pledges were formally presented to Mrs. S. F. Stanley, general drive chairman, by Jean Mubar, of the Reserves.

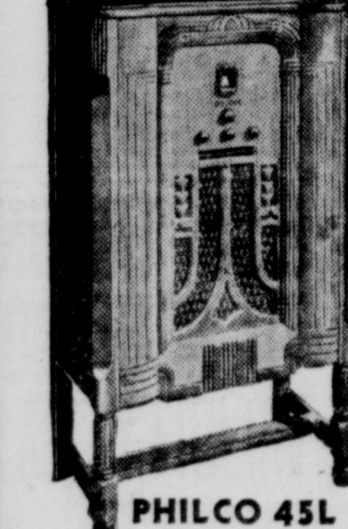

The first report luncheon was scheduled to be held this afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. when reports will be heard on the progress of the drive, which has for its goal $7500.

Sweet foods and drink are tasted with the tip of the tongue; bitter things with the back of the tongue.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

You are tired, exhausted and craving rest. You hunger for the satisfaction of your yearning and the restoration of courage, hope and strength. Human ministrations seem futile and inadequate.

Lay hold upon the faith of the writer of the twenty-third Psalm who learned "He restoreth my soul; He bringeth me refreshment in fields of quietness; He setteth my feet upon the open road." All this will be true for you, if you look to Him.

EKKHOUT—November 19, 1934, in Santa Ana, Elise Ekkhout, of Ventura. She is survived by her husband, William B. Ekkhout, and two step-children, Mrs. C. E. Nelson, of Watford, England, and Bernard Ekkhout, of Oakland, Calif. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown.

DOWLING—In Santa Ana, November 17, 1934, Edward Dowling, aged 79 years. He had lived for several years in Santa Ana canyon. Notice of services will later be given by the Winbiger Funeral home. He came from Hallettsville, Texas, where his relatives live.

SPRADLIN—In Santa Ana, Nov. 17, 1934, Nora C. Spradlin, aged 53 years. Sister of Mrs. E. R. Gordon, of Santa Ana, and John H. Graham, of Carlinville, Ill. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. from Smith and Tutill's chapel. Interment Fairhaven cemetery.

ROSSELOT HEAD OF GRAND JURY; WORK STARTED

The 1934 grand jury, with F. P. Rossetot, Garden Grove rancher appointed foreman, was drawn today by Superior Judge H. G. Ames and commenced preparation for its annual labors by studying the report of the 1933 grand jury.

Four women and 15 men make up the personnel of this year's grand jury, drawn from a panel of 30 names. Immediately after the jury was drawn and the foreman appointed, the body retired to the jury room of department one, for the purpose of electing a secretary and selecting standing committees to carry on various branches of grand jury investigation.

So far as official circles were aware, there were no special matters awaiting the attention of the grand jury, beyond the usual scope of departmental inspection of county books and business.

As it retired for organization, the grand jury asked for a copy of last year's report. Subsequently County Clerk J. M. Backs and District Attorney S. B. Kaufman were closeted with the jury for brief conferences.

Members of this year's grand jury are: F. P. Rossetot, Garden Grove, foreman; Horace Stevens, Tustin; Mrs. Clara Van Dien, W. C. May, Fred M. Robinson and Ralph Fuller, of Santa Ana; Will O. Segerstrom, R. D. 4, Santa Ana; Mrs. Clara M. Jones and Fred L. Wilson, of El Modena; Harry D. Hyde, Balboa; Mrs. L. F. Moulton, El Toro; H. Enderle, Tustin; Harry B. Pearson, Anaheim; Walter M. Muckenthaler, Fullerton; George W. Bush, Sunset Beach; Mrs. R. W. Marvin, Anaheim; Frank D. Plavan, San Juan Capistrano; Fred H. Pope, Talbert; and Roy W. Peacock, Laguna Beach.

Unsettled weather tonight and tomorrow was predicted today by the United States Weather bureau following a week end which brought about an additional inch of rainfall to the county, boosting county totals farther than ever above last year. More than half of the total for last year has now been reached in Santa Ana.

Storm totals in the above table are inclusive of rainfall during the past week's storm as the week-end rainfall was considered part of the storm which drenched the county last week. Measurements in the table were taken at from 7 to 8 o'clock this morning.

Santa Ana received 1.05 inches of rain in the past 48 hours, bringing the storm total to 2.27 inches, the season to 5.50 inches as compared with .60 inches at this same time last year.

Villa Park received the most precipitation during the 48-hour period, with 1.55 inches. Garden Grove was a close second with 1.54 inches. Anaheim continued to lead for the season with 8.53 inches of rain so far this season.

Futile Attempts Made To Break In Market at Mesa

A crude attempt to break into the Alpha Beta market at Costa Mesa last night was discovered today and investigated by Deputy Sheriff R. E. Steinberger, R. R. Luttrell and Constable William Ponting of Costa Mesa.

The first attack was made on a rear door, where small holes were bored in several places. Apparently failing to get the door open, the intruder got into the basement and bored holes up through the floor of the storeroom but was unable to make a large hole and gain entrance.

Local Briefs

A meeting of Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension plan club No. 3 will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hendrie, 119 West Washington avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

City officials will be among those present tomorrow from 5:30 to 7 p. m. when a health dinner is given at the American Legion hall by the Loma Linda Food company, under the direction of H. H. Haynes.

TWO REPORTS APPROVED BY STATE SERA

Two new SERA projects will be launched in the near future in Orange county, following announcement today of the approval of the projects by the state authorities.

One of the work relief projects is for bridge paving, bank protection and a foot bridge in Fullerton. H. Q. Hiltcher will supervise the project, which is sponsored by the city of Fullerton.

About 15 persons will be given work, but because of the staggered system of labor employed on SERA projects necessitated by having workers earn only their budget deficiencies a total of 45 workers can be absorbed on the project. Persons on relief or in need of relief will earn their full budgetary requirements on this project, which will cost the SERA $1050 for labor.

The other project is for cataloging, repairing, and binding books in six Orange school libraries. A total of 12 persons will earn their budgets on the project, which will cost $624 to SERA for labor. George Sherwood will supervise the project.

SELECT JURY TO TRY CABIN THEFT CASE

Accused of theft of a $350 cabin more than three years ago from Louis Robinson, Trabuco rancher, Earl McClintock went on trial today before a jury in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court, with Robinson as the first witness called against him.

Robinson testified that the cabin, which stood on his land on Trabuco mesa for 10 years, had been leased to Ike Arnold, was moved away by McClintock on the night of October 26 or 27, 1931. Robinson came upon McClintock and the workmen as they were locating the cabin at a new site, a quarter-mile away, he said.

In subsequent discussion, McClintock claimed that he considered that the cabin belonged to him, Robinson said. He said he had waited nearly three years before filing the grand theft charge in the hope that McClintock would make some sort of settlement with him. He could wait no longer, or the case would be outlawed, he explained.

Members of the jury hearing the case the: Mrs. H. J. Fay, Charles E. Boyd, Mrs. A. L. Aiken, August H. Maas, Ernest J. Zeller, Earl Mathis, Fred C. Jones, Mrs. Margaret C. Evans, Mrs. William Bathgate, George E. Hubbard, Mrs. Ella P. Wallop and C. G. Dowds.

City Hall Bids To Be Opened By Council Tonight

Bids on the new Santa Ana city hall will be received by the city council at the regular meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Notice to call for bids was given three weeks ago, following approval of the plans and specifications by PWA officials in Los Angeles. Seven Santa Ana contractors were among those who rented sets of plans for the purpose of making bids.

House Searched; Nothing Missing

Although the door was opened and the house apparently searched last night, nothing was reported missing from the home of A. L. Merie, 1803 South Van Ness street. It was reported to police today.

When the family returned home, the door was open and two of the three dogs had been permitted to leave the house. There was a hole in the kitchen door screen but the house was probably entered with a pass key, police stated.

News Of The Churches

HIGHER CLAIM OF CHRIST TO LOYALTY TOLD

Using the text from Luke 14:33, "So likewise, whoever he be of you that forsake not all that he hath cannot be my disciple," the Rev. Cecil M. Aker, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church yesterday emphasized the superior claim of Christ over all lesser loyalties among His followers.

Speaking at the Sunday morning service, he said, in part:

"In order to understand this staggering demand of Jesus it is necessary to take into consideration the circumstances under which it was spoken. Luke tells us that it was at a time when Jesus was on the crest of the wave of His popularity.

"He says, 'There went great multitudes with Him; and He turned, and said unto them, If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.'

"This indeed seems an impossible demand at first sight; and it would have been, if Jesus were only another leader or a great movement, as this crowd of patriots imagined Him to be. What they wanted was a leader who would overthrow their great enemy, the Roman power.

"But Jesus saw that to make Him a mere leader of a movement rather than the Lord over their very lives was really to wholly misunderstand Him and His mission in the world. And so He said in effect, 'I am not a mere leader of a political movement, I am the Lord over all your relationships, even of the dearest of all, the family relationships; I am Lord over all areas of your lives, political, social, economic—all must be brought under subjection to me.'

"Jesus also declared that He was to be Lord over all our possessions. He said, 'So likewise, whoever he be of you that forsake not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple.' Prof. Moffat has well said that 'next to a man's treatment of his family, his treatment of his material possessions is the most decisive test of his character. How he makes and spends his money determines his character here and his destiny hereafter.'

"So Jesus makes these staggering demands of the people of His day, thus assuming, that He is not another leader of some patriotic movement as they imagine, but He was absolute Lord over all. Hence all lesser loyalties must be merged into that highest loyalty of all—the loyalty to the Lordship of Jesus Christ. Anything less is to dishonor Him and to place Him out of His class as the divine Son of God, Lord of heaven and earth.

"To recognize this absolute claim of Jesus Christ gives meaning and binding power to all lesser loyalties. Man He was, and yet more, for He asks of us only that which God alone could ask. And thus, He became both man and God; and our loyalty to Him as a man, becomes also worship of Him as God. He must be Lord over all, in order to be Lord at all."

Christian Science

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text was from Paul's epistle to the Romans: "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God."

Among the scriptural selections in the lesson-sermon were those verses from Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. . . . For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the statements: "Condemnation to good does not lessen man's dependence on God, but heightens it. . . . Christian Science takes naught from the perfection of God, but it ascribes to Him the entire glory. By putting 'off the old man with his deeds,' mortals 'put on immortality.'"

'TRUE CHURCH' IS DELINEATED BY EVANGELIST

"Denominationalism and sectarianism is not of God," the Rev. Everett B. Parrott, evangelist conducting non-sectarian revival meetings in the Big Tent Cathedral located at First street and Orange avenue, declared yesterday afternoon to a crowd that packed the big tent to capacity to hear his sermon entitled, "Which Church Is the True Church?"

He likened the church of God to a tree planted by God through men on the day of Pentecost. He told the audience there are but two churches: the visible and the invisible.

"The visible church is the denomination, the building, the membership, that which is seen with the natural eye while the invisible church is that group of people of every denomination who have met the Lord Jesus Christ in the 'new birth' experience," he said. "This is the true church. It is impossible to join this church, one must be born into it of the Spirit."

"The original church on the day of Pentecost had all of the fruits and gifts of the Spirit and the true church today should manifest these same blessings," he continued. The evangelist then enumerated the gifts of the Spirit as found in First Corinthians, the twelfth chapter, and also the fruits of the Spirit as found in the fifth chapter of Galatians.

Using Joel, the first chapter, and verses 2 to 4, as his text, Evangelist Parrott then told of the destruction of the church tree, began in a great crusade against sin, we could drive the devil clear out of Orange county."

A beautiful illustrated "Illuminated Cross Service" drew a crowd that again packed the big tent in the evening. It is reported that scores were converted and that hundreds have knelt at the altars of prayer.

Evangelist Parrott's sermon topic for 7:30 o'clock tonight is, "If the Apostle Paul Were Living Today, Would He Be Admitted Into Membership in the Modern Church?"

On Tuesday night he will again pray for sick persons.

DESCENDING OF TEMPLE RETOLD BY REV. MEYER

Preaching on "religious deception," the Rev. H. W. Meyer, of St. Peter Lutheran church, yesterday dealt with the fulfillment of Christ's prophecy regarding destruction and desolation of the temple and Jerusalem.

Reciting the following text from Matthew 24, 1-2, "And Jesus went out, and departed from the temple; and His disciples came to join him for to show Him the buildings of the temple. And Jesus said unto them, 'See ye not all these things? Verily I say unto you, there shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down,'" he said:

"Six years after work on the third temple was ended, Titus with his Roman and foreign legions, 70 A. D., appeared outside the walls of Jerusalem and demanded the surrender. The inhabitants refused and there ensued one of the bloodiest slaughters of history. Travelers to the Holy Land tell us that the temple has never been rebuilt. When Titus was through, history records that plowmen broke up the hardened soil on Mount Moriah where the temple once stood. A desolate sight to those who had fled to the hills when Titus' legions first appeared; and Jesus said it would be desolate. The immediate cause of this desolation was the Jewish revolt against the authority of Rome, but there was another cause.

"When Christ prophesied desolation for the temple and Jerusalem, it was because the nation rejected Him. The rejected One becomes the rejecter and as a parting warning to His disciples portrays the end of the nation and the temple. Christ withdrew from the sacred precincts and no longer would the sacred temple be 'My Father's House,' no longer would God's Spirit meet the temple attendants. The projecting wing is withdrawn, the Divine presence removed, and the house is indeed desolate.

"Jewish revolt against Roman rule the immediate cause; the earthly result, desolation and slaughter; the heavenly result, eternal rejection. All because of a religious deception. It was a religious deception to reject Jesus Christ as the Son of God; still, Israel listened to the wrong voice, the leaders of Israel stirred up the people, and it did not take much stirring to cry out, 'Crucify him, crucify him!'

"They called Christ the great deceiver, but sacred history tells us who the real deceiver or deceivers were. Did Christ fail to give clear and irrefutable proof? 'Believe me for my very works' sake,' Jesus tells us who was to blame in the thirty-eight verse of chapter 23, 'ye would not.' It still is a religious deception to reject Jesus as the world's Savior and Atoner, whether it be positive modernism or the modern cults that give every plain word of Jesus a symbolic twist; it is just as fatal to reject Him by material indifference.

"It was a religious deception when Satan said unto the woman (Genesis 2, 1), 'Yea hath God said, ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?' It was a religious deception when Satan said to Jesus in the wilderness, 'All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.'

"After Jesus pronounced desolation upon the temple, His disciples came unto Him to show Him the buildings of the temple (chapter 24, verse 1). Jesus' answer was that not one stone would be left upon another. Jesus and His disciples left by the East gate, crossed the river Kidron and on the slopes of Mount Olivet, as they rested, the disciples asked a threefold question: 'When shall these things be, what shall be the sign of thy coming, and (what shall be the sign) of the end of the world?'

"Christ's introduction to their threefold question was, 'Take heed that no man deceive you.' The rest of His answer is written in the remainder of the twenty-fourth chapter of the Gospel according to Matthew. Repeatedly Jesus warns against the possibility of deception. It is a religious deception to think that we cannot be deceived. Even the elect would be deceived were it not for the sustaining grace of Christ. Therefore to the Scriptures to search if these things be true, like the Bereans who searched to establish Paul's preaching. It is a religious deception to think that the end of the world is not coming. Christ said it would; it hasn't yet, but Christ said He would rise on the third day; He did; He said not one stone would be left upon another and Titus saw to it that there wasn't."

CLAREMONT, Nov. 19.—Nelson Eddy, distinguished young American baritone who appears in Bridges Auditorium tomorrow evening in the second concert of the Claremont Colleges Artist Course, is the first artist to be re-engaged during the four years of this outstanding series. Eddy returns in response to popular demand, and will present one of his typical concerts, which represents a rare combination of classical music and more familiar songs.

Eddy is one of the most versatile artists before the American public, having won a notable place for himself not only in concert but in opera, oratorio, cinema, and radio. Although only 32 years old last June, he has been honored by request appearances with the symphony orchestras, in a score of famous oratorios, and in leading operatic roles both east and west.

COSTA MESA, Nov. 19.—Eddie Reichenbach, of 106 Twenty-second street, Costa Mesa, has been elected to leadership in the California Mu chapter of the national non-academic fraternity, Phi Lambda Epsilon.

REDEMPTION OF PEOPLE SHOWN AS DIVINE PLAN

"Great treasures are often dug out of the most unlikely places; spots where we are least expecting to find them," said the Rev. Samuel E. Edgar, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, in his sermon yesterday from the text of Titus 2:14, "He gave Himself for us that He might redeem us from all iniquity and purify unto Himself a people for His own possession, zealous of good works."

"Here in this chapter, in the midst of exhortation, warning, and counsel, we find the very heart of the gospel and the great plan of redemption put in the clearest and most concise statement," said the Rev. Edgar. "It would seem as though the great apostle by accident had come upon a new vein of buried treasure that brought forth a wonderful output of the riches of redemption."

"Three great truths are open on the face of the text. God's purchased people, His purified people, and His possessed people, or people of His own possession.

"First of all, God's purchased people. He gave himself that He might redeem us. That word means to buy back again.

"In one of the Psalms we have this same truth set forth: 'Redemption great and plentiful, is ever found with Him. And He from all iniquity Will Israel redeem.'

"Redemption for His people is both great and plentiful. Great because it was born in the heart of God. Plentiful because there is enough for all. And its reach is to those who are in sin. Redeem us from all iniquity. It is as complete as it is wide in its reach. The Master said on one occasion 'For the Son of Man is come not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many.' And the cost of this redemption was the gift of His Son.

"The apostle might well exclaim, 'Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift.' One of our hymns says 'He paid the price and made me free.' So through a living faith in Jesus Christ we become a part of God's purchased people.

"God's purified people are next. Naaman the Leper was astounded and disappointed when the Prophet told him to go wash in the Jordan. He wanted something great to do or be done for him. And he had brought money and presents to purchase it. But these things did not belong to the cleanser of the prophet's realm. The scholars tell us that the word used here for purify is the very same as was used by our Lord in connection with the healing of the leper. Jesus said on one occasion to a leper 'I will be thou purified, made clean.' What you and I need is purification such as came to the leper.

"Now as to 'a people of His own possession.' We do not like the word 'peculiar' as we find it in the common version of our Bible because of the common use we make of that word today. So the revisers have translated it for us this way, 'A people of His own possession.'

"This is the only place in the new testament where the word is found. But eight times we find it in the old testament. Here is one quotation 'The Lord hath chosen Jacob unto Himself and Israel for His peculiar treasure.' So Paul takes hold of that great Hebrew idea and uses it of the Christian experiment. We are redeemed that we may be his personal treasure. His peculiar people. His very own.

"We are then among those the Lord has made his own treasure, or we are of those who say, 'well, we hope to some day.' If we are among the number of the redeemed, we are among those whom He has purified in the economy of Grace, are we then living as people of his peculiar treasure? If these be true then here are some facts for our joy. He thinks for us. He acts for us. He protects us. Here you have plan, power, and atmosphere where we live in abounding strength."

News Of Orange And Vicinity

JEAN G. TRITT, GEORGE SMITH WED AT YUMA

VILLA PARK, Nov. 19.—Announcement of the marriage of Miss Jean G. Tritt to George Smith at Yuma Friday has been made by the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Randolph Tritt, of Cerro Villa Heights. The ceremony took place at the Presbyterian manse with the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. H. A. Brown, reading the service.

The bride wore a sheer wool suit of brown with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias and violets. Following a short honeymoon trip, the young people have established their home in Laguna Beach where Mr. Smith is a member of the office staff of Hotel Laguna.

Miss Tritt graduated from the Girls' Collegiate college at Glendora in June and previous to entering the college she attended a girls' school at San Clemente. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Edmund Smith, 257 North Grand street, and graduated from the Orange Union High school before attending the University of Southern California. He was a member of the football team at that university and of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Both young people are members of prominent pioneer families and the bride is a granddaughter of Richard Hall Gilman, founder of the Valencia orange industry in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Tritt entertained with an informal family dinner last evening in honor of the new Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

7 HI-Y GROUPS HEAR ADDRESS TUESDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Nov. 19.—Paul Campbell, of San Francisco, will be the speaker at a city wide meeting of the seven Hi-Y chapters of the Y. M. C. A. at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock. Campbell is head of the Epworth League of Northern California. He will be accompanied by an entertainer from the north who will present musical numbers.

The meeting is one of four to be held this year and members of Chapter No. 4, with Harold Gilton as advisor, and Herbert Douglas as president, are in charge of arrangements. A number of stunts will be presented. Group singing will be led by Campbell.

Guests of the chapters will be the Young Men's division of the Y, with Monte Todd president. About 125 are expected to be present.

Hold Funeral Of Emanuel L. Young

ORANGE, Nov. 19.—Funeral services for Emanuel L. Young, 73, who passed away Friday morning at his home on South Broadway, Santa Ana, following a stroke, were held Saturday afternoon from the Gilgoly Funeral home, with Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the local First Presbyterian church, conducting the last rites.

"So I Can Wait" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were sung by a nephew of the deceased, Elbert Stewart. He was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Florence Gilgoly Donegan, who played before and after the services.

Pallbearers were Harry H. Pritchard, William Pritchard, A. O. Hodson, J. H. Stewart, Robert Anderson and Robert Hopkins.

Mr. Young is survived by Mrs. Harry Pritchard and Mrs. J. H. Stewart, nieces, who live in Santa Ana, besides a number of nephews and nieces in San Francisco. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery.

COORDINATING

Coordinator Richberg has a book on his desk about two inches high. It lists the things he must coordinate within the New Deal. How he got everything into one book is something he will have to explain. It must be only the first volume.

At any rate, he looked the door the other day, pulled down the shade and started in coordinating. He must have started at the back of the book, for the first thing selected was one which looked easy—the re-establishment of brotherly love between the NRA and the FTC.

Those two outfits have been having it hot and heavy on the inside about steel statistics. The trade commission has been demanding inside facts and figures from the iron and steel institute. The commission needs the data in its study of the basing point system of fixing steel prices. But the iron and steel institute is under the NRA. It privately obtained the protection of the NRA in denying the data to the FTC, leaving the two government bureaus to fight it out.

WHISPERING

Mr. Richberg took his sharpest pen in hand and wrote to the FTC. He said in effect he thought the commission should desist, that the steel people would use the case to worm out of its NRA code and implied that the FTC was going outside its field. He admitted that he had no jurisdiction over the FTC, because it is an independent commission. Also he added a sentence suggesting that no talking be done about the matter.

Of course, there has been no talking, except by a few hundred people, and then only in stage whispers, which will be heard around the world.

Also, the commission has decided to stand pat on its demands, which leaves matters just where they were before Mr. Richberg started.

That will give you a slight idea of what this coordinating job is like and how much fun it is going to be when Mr. Richberg gets around to some of the hard cases. Before it is over, Mr. Richberg will use his pen for jabbing instead of writing and then the campaign to mold the far-flung New Deal into a harmonious unit will undoubtedly become a question of the survival of the fittest.

TUGWELL

The mystery of what is going to happen to Prof. Tugwell has not yet been decided by the New Deal mystery settlers.

The way things are going now, he may become a big liaison man between George Peek and Agriculture Secretary Wallace for the colossal, if not impossible, task of promoting foreign agricultural markets. Such a difficult case has been accomplished before in the New Deal.

BEARING DOWN

Having tried everything else on the Japanese, without success, the U. S. diplomats are now turning Navy Secretary Swanson loose on them.

The program started when an anonymous American voice was heard in the press dispatches from London recently, shouting that we would outbuild the Japanese if they ditched existing naval treaties. The cloak of anonymity was rather thin, as nearly everyone recognized Admiral William Standley. At least the Japanese did.

Mr. Swanson almost immediately suggested that the navy might send the Macon out to Hawaii to determine its "war qualities." Then Swanson made announcements indicating we could outbuild Japan's navy by 50 per cent, contemplating improvements at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, permitting easy "ingress and egress of warships"; concerning contracts for three new aircraft hangars at Hawaii and threatening construction of a new 2 1/2 million-cubic-foot dirigible. There is nothing subtle about Mr. Swanson.

AMBITIONS

The politicians around here have heard some wild tales about the ambitions of Upton Sinclair. They wish they knew whether the reports were true.

Their dope is that Sinclair has dropped the California gubernatorial plaything and is planning a presidential campaign for 1938. They say he did not care to be governor of California and was only writing another book when he published "I, Governor of California." For that reason they believe he will not push his promised recall campaign against Governor Merriam, but will devote himself to more serious business.

Huey Long's tactics lately also tell them better than a formal announcement from Huey would that the Louisiana emperor has similar ambitions.

As between Sinclair and Huey, everyone in the know would bet on Huey. He will "raise" Sinclair out of the race if he follows his usual strategy. Every time Sinclair offers to give every man, woman and child in the country $100 or $200, Huey will up him $50. You cannot compete with Huey at poker or demagoguery.

NOTES

When someone asked Democratic Publicity Master Michelson if he planned a two year vacation now that the election was over, Michelson replied: "I would, but Jettie Shouse (head of the American Liberty League) won't let me."

The saddest place in town for a Republican is the senate chamber, where the little group of 27 seats on the Republican side tells the story of the last election better than anything else. There is enough space left for the Repubcans to start a carpet golf course, and they might as well.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

RATES

Consolidated Gas drew a lot of sympathy from big time conservatives as the chief butt of the New York Power Authority's blast on electric rates.

No one is talking for publication. But a number of New York leaders—outside as well as within the utility field—are privately apprehensive about how far this yardstick business is going to go. Once the principle is established that a federal commission is a qualified judge—without argument—of proper prices to consumers, the true value of plants and a fair rate of return there's no telling where it will lead. While the Power Authority is theoretically a state organization it ties in too close to the federal administration for comfort. Its report carried much wider implications of regulation than any action by ANY federal body in the past.

Critics remark that if its appraisal is correct the total worth of Con. Gas plants is less than its bonded indebtedness—a premise which financial men gravely doubt.

From the government angle

Report serves two major purposes. 1. It paves the way for vigorous renewal of FDR's fight for the St. Lawrence Seaway Treaty. This doesn't worry utility interests unduly. They are pretty sure Canada will block action on the matter what our Senate does—and are prepared to bolster Canadian opposition any way that comes handy.

2. It smashes at the very heart of utility resistance to the New Deal—the stiffest organized resistance still remaining. Con. Gas is as shilling a target as could be found. Anything that seriously discredits it just about breaks the backbone of the utilities' comeback campaign. Here's a hint on rates that will develop as the argument progresses. Part of Consolidated's high charges for domestic electricity aim at protecting the company's heavy investment in obsolescent gas equipment. That won't be easy to justify once it's out in the open.

DONE

There's reason to believe the Power Authority's attack on rates is the first run in a much broader campaign. Watch for a barrage of further reports from the Federal Trade Commission in the next few weeks unfavorable to the power companies. The public will be treated to mountains of fresh evidence that it's been taken for a ride by the purveyors of gas and electricity.

Insiders predict that the administration will sponsor legislation in the next Congress which will make it impossible for holding companies to move about as better calculated to wreck permanently Wall Street's hopes of regaining its control over the nation's financial operations. And the more dust is raised meantime about holding company abuses the better the chances to sweep the boards clean.

If Congress has a juicy holding company bone to gnaw it's far less likely to go off on radical tangents of its own.

STIMULATION

Don't take too much stock in the official prophecy that the lifting of Treasury restrictions on foreign exchange transactions will boom foreign trade to the skies. Experts say the effect of the new policy in that direction will hardly be visible to the naked eye. Its real implications are much more subtle.

In some respects it was an answer to a Wall Street prayer. Insiders call it tantamount to a pledge that the dollar is going to be left alone—a commitment conservatives have been after for months. Comment runs that the President has gone as far toward stabilization as is politically possible now. At the same time—by refraining from direct and specific stabilization—he makes it hard for inflationary groups to fight back. New York inflation leaders aren't a bit happy about it but the flank attack took them by surprise and they haven't yet figured out an effective reply.

The old psychology is a factor too. Now that anyone can export capital at will nobody wants to. The move is a big help to that "confidence" New York is always raving about. Foreign funds are far more likely to rush in than American money to flow out. In time this could become a nuisance but for the present it should stimulate our security and commodity markets and thereby assist in promoting domestic recovery.

TEETH

New York learns that Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the Securities and Exchange Commission is trying to cope with one of his thorniest problems.

A glaring loophole in the Securities Act has to be plugged. Many wildcat promotion schemes have found it easy to register legally and float stock issues of dubious value—helped by the federal government's implied approval of their operations. It's true that their prospectuses would hardly inspire a wary investor to enthusiasm—but the kind of customers these people go after aren't wary.

So Mr. Kennedy wants to find a way to protect the uninformed public from its infinite capacity for playing the sucker. The law as it stands fails miserably in this respect. Congress may be asked to insert sharper teeth for the benefit of the boys who can still offer to make you rich overnight with impunity.

The presence of Ben Smith—

SEEK GOD FOR HIMSELF. URGES R. E. V. CHAMLEE

FULLERTON, Nov. 19.—The desire to find God for selfish gain hinders development of Christian character, according to the Rev. L. I. Chamlee, pastor of the First Christian church, Fullerton, who talked to his congregation Sunday evening on "How Can I Find God?"

At the morning service, officers for the year were installed as a chief part of the service, and the pastor spoke briefly on the performance of duties.

In the evening he said the great characters of the Bible were people who sought God for Himself, and cited the words of Job, of Paul.

"Do we really want to find God?" he asked. "A better question would be 'How can I put myself in a position to be found by God?' For I am persuaded that He is seeking man more than man ever sought Him. Jesus pictures God as the Shepherd who has lost a sheep and goes out to find him; as the woman who has lost the coin, and rejoices when she finds it. God is far more anxious to find us than we can ever be to find Him. His great fatherly heart is lonely when one child is lost and away from His fatherly care."

"We want Him, and we do not want Him; we want him who is not a hot water bottle just to get us comfortable and warm when we are cold. As soon as our need is met, we desire Him no longer. We want Him as we want a fairy god-mother, to touch the rubbish piles of our lives and turn them into gold, and when the miracle has been performed, we want Him to disappear. We want Him to answer our prayers, at once, as we do when we give orders to a butler, a valet, a servant."

"But such desiring of Him is vain. We must not want Him for what we can get out of Him, but sender on Rickenbacker's attempted record-breaking flight from New York to Miami drew the crack that one thing the "new harmony" has accomplished is to chase the bears away from their happy Wall Street hunting ground."

ALIBI

Add alibis for the Republican fadeout in the election: "How the heck could we get anywhere? The American Liberty League grabbed all the cash that should have come our way and we couldn't get so much as cigarette money out of them. That's a swell way to cooperate when we're trying to fight their battles."

PASTOR TALKS ON GOVERNOR AND LINCOLN

FULLERTON, Nov. 19.—The Rev. Graham C. Hunter spoke yesterday morning to the Presbyterian church on "The Gettysburg Address and the New Governor" and said in part:

"The nineteenth of November is the anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address and it is an interesting story, recently retold about how Mr. Lincoln came by special train to Gettysburg on the night of the seventeenth, in 1863, stayed at the home of Judge Willis and next morning went with a procession to Cemetery Ridge. Mr. Everett was to be the orator of the day and came an hour late. He spoke two hours and people were tired and hungry. Then Mr. Lincoln stood up to speak. Holding a piece of paper in front, and with a high tenor voice, he spoke 'immortal words.' He sat down so soon that many people hardly realized that he had begun. But that day he had demised his fellow countrymen of a theory of government struggled through generations and through centuries by patriots, that government is for the people."

"Congratulating the newly elected governor of California on his election we recall his 30 years of service as Bible class teacher and his faithful work in his church and are glad that he believes sincerely in the principles of religion. But many people are uneasy at that first message thanking a prominent resident of San Simeon for supporting him and saying that he had never known that person of the newspapers run from San Simeon not to stand on the right side of the question."

One Christian leader, editor of a Christian paper, expressed what many others feel, a profound distrust of dictatorship and preference for a different sort of dictatorship than that. Mr. Governor, believing in your own high ideals, we look to you to make the government of the state what Lincoln said it ought to be, a government for people; we look to you to lead against vigilantism and for the law; against exploitation of common people by absentee landlords and people too far away to understand their needs; against pauperism, for people do not want the county dote, but work. We will back you loyally in everything you propose which reminds us of our Both Mr. and Mrs. Woodward are religious ideal, for our politics is subordinate to that. We pray for your happiness and for your guidance by the Spirit of righteousness and truth."

If you have a pimply, blotchy complexion try Resinol to help nature heal such surface defects

JO WARLICK WEDS CHESLEY WOODWARD

FULLERTON, Nov. 19.—Wearing a white moire princess style gown, and carrying gardenias and lilies of the valley with satin shower ribbons, Miss Jo Warlick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Warlick of Buena Park became the bride of Chesley Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Woodward of Fullerton Friday at 7 o'clock at the Wee Kirk of the Heather church at Glendale. The Rev. Charles Fuller, a former pastor of the Calvary church at Placentia, read the marriage lines.

Mrs. Owen Thompson of San Diego in green taffeta with pink accessories acted as maid of honor for Miss Warlick. She carried pink rosebuds in harmonizing tones. Gordon Woodward, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Vocal solos, "At Dawning" (Cadmian), and "God Made You Mine" by James Baker of Fullerton, preceded the wedding march. Genevieve Bueler was organist.

The bridegroom is an employee of the First National bank of Fullerton and the new home will be made on Mountain City drive.

NO MORE ENERGY? ... GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

Whether their daily tasks carry them through crowded city streets, or deep impenetrable jungles, Camel smokers in all walks of life agree on the delightful "lift" they get from smoking a Camel. Mrs. William LaVarre, famous explorer, whose treks through dangerous South American jungles have taught her the vital necessity of keeping up her energy reserve, has this to say about Camels: "We took 30,000 Camels with us on our last expedition. Any time I'm tired, I just stop and smoke a Camel. It wakes up my energy in no time. And smoking Camels steadily, I find, does not affect one's nerves."

LEAF-TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

Bridge Enjoyed By Club Members

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 19.—Carrying out an autumn color scheme in her table decorations Mrs. Claudine Irvine entertained members of the Octagon club with a delightful 1 o'clock luncheon at her home on Gilbert road. The table was centered with bronze colored chrysanthemums and tall orange tapers, while the group found their places by autumn leaves upon which their names had been printed.

After luncheon tables were arranged for bridge. First prize was awarded to Mrs. F. C. Arnim and second prize went to Mrs. Charles Hunt. Each received a fancy perfume bottle wrapped in paper which carried out the color theme of the afternoon.

Those present were Medames F. C. Arnim, of Santa Ana; Eugene Thomas, of Irvine; Charles Hunt, of Anaheim; Ray Johnson, Arthur Woodworth, L. A. Ford, R. R. Rosset, a guest, and the hostess.

PROGRAM HELD BY MEMBERS OF WOMAN'S CLUB

COSTA MESA, Nov. 19.—Members of the Friday Afternoon club and their friends heard an address on "Violins" at their meeting Friday afternoon by Mrs. Edith Cloyes, of Santa Ana. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ruben Day, president of the club.

The afternoon's entertainment was supplemented by violin and piano selections by Simon Plas and Joseph Ogle. Mr. Plas and Mr. Ogle played together, "Requiem," "Vieuxtemps," "Salut d'Amour," "Edgar," "Old Refrain," "Kreutzer," and "Berceuse." Faure. Mr. Ogle gave as piano solos, "Sands" and "Ramble."

During the luncheon hour immediately preceding the entertainment, Mrs. Ruth MacKenzie, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Custer, sang several classical numbers.

At a short business session the resignation of Mrs. Alma Sexton, club secretary, and Mrs. Harry Schick, chairman of the Arts and Crafts section of the club, were read. Mrs. Gunning Butler served as secretary pro tem and Miss Alice Plummer, assistant chairman to the Arts and Crafts section, will assume the duties of chairman.

Mrs. George Purnell, office secretary of the California Federation of Women's clubs, was a guest. Mrs. George Merrick arranged the decorations. Mrs. John Webster was in charge of the program.

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 19.—Members of the Friday Morning Book club of Balboa Island enjoyed a series of short talks by club members and heard reviews of two current novels in Friday's meeting, held at the home of Mrs. A. S. Richardson. Mrs. Ruth Parks, chairman in charge of the day's program, introduced four club members, each of whom gave three-minute talks.

Among the new books reviewed were "Full Flavor," a new English novel written by Doris Leslie, which recounts the growth of the tobacco industry in England over a space of two generations. It was reviewed by Mrs. Marjorie Raub. Mrs. Ruth Parks gave a review of Stark Young's new book "So Red the Rose," a story of the south during the Civil War period.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held the morning of December 7 at the home of Mrs. Joe Hamblet, Balboa Island.

EDDY CONCERT IN BEACH CITY PLEASES CROWD

By ARVID E. GILMOUNT
LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 19.—Auguring well for future successes of a series of musical events to be given here this winter under the auspices of the Laguna Beach Music Lover's club, was the brilliant performance given Saturday night at the high school auditorium by Nelson Eddy, baritone, assisted by Theodore Paddon, pianist.

Eddy by his artistry, singing his feelings into the little stories told in the different numbers, surpassed the expectations of a select audience and was forced to give a number of encores followed by several curtain calls.

The program opened with a series of songs in Italian, of which perhaps "Chi Vole Innamorarsi" by Scarlatti was perhaps best received by the audience. Then followed a group of French songs in which Eddy brought down the house with the splendid rendition of "Au Pays" (The Soldier's Return) by Augusta Holmes.

Dramatic ability of a high order combined with vocal gift of extraordinary power was exhibited in songs of the Mastersingers from "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg," well known Wagnerian opera.

The concert was brought to a close with a group of songs in English, of which "Love With Me Yesterday" by Walter Golde, was particularly well received.

The audience was very demonstrative and as result Eddy had to give a number of encores, which included in the impromptu offerings were "Water Boy," a Negro song, "Sailor's Love," "Smiling Through," and "Dusty Road."

Mr. Paxton, in presenting a group of Chopin compositions, revealed musicianship reflected in masterful technique and brilliant execution.

COUPLE OBSERVES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

COSTA MESA, Nov. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Buttram celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday in their home on Nineteenth street at Fullerton, when they were hosts to their children and their families at a noon luncheon and received many friends and acquaintances through the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Buttram were married at Gainesville, Texas. They came to Costa Mesa 14 years ago. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by them.

Those present at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Buttram, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Brooks and children, of Imperial, Mr. and Mrs. David Buttram and children, of Santa Maria, Mr. and Mrs. William Buttram and children, of Whittier; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Carter and children, of Victorville, and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Martin and child. A daughter, Mrs. J. C. Looney, of Sawtelle, was unable to be present. Twenty-one grandchildren were in the party.

HOLD TEA AND RECEPTION AT LAGUNA ART GALLERY

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 19.—Local art patrons as well as a large number of out-of-town visitors attended yesterday afternoon the reception and tea given at the galleries of the Laguna Beach Art association, preceding the opening of the new one-man show in the lower gallery, featuring works of John Hubbard Rich, Plummer, Virginia Parsons and Joseph De Mars.

Mrs. Thomas Hunt, wife of the tea table, assisted by Mrs. George Webster, Mrs. James Patterson, Mrs. William Griffith and Mrs. Volney Tanner.

"Picturesqueness" is the dominant characteristic of a collection of water colors, distinctly modern in composition and equally up-to-date in subjects, that is exhibited by E. Plummer, talented young water colorist, who hails from Redlands.

Another one-man show welcomed by the public is a collection of portraits by John Hubbard Rich, nationally known portrait painter, whose work is widely known in art circles from coast to coast.

Supplementing these two groups are two minor collections of one-man exhibits submitted by Virginia Parsons of Los Angeles and Joseph De Mars of San Diego.

JAPANESE LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 19.—Fifty young Japanese of Orange county met in the Woman's Civic clubhouse Friday evening and organized the Japanese American chapter of the Japanese League. The chapter was in charge of Miss Woolver and Gloria Mellesner had charge of dinner arrangements.

Others of the clubs present were Gladys and Cordius Jackson, Betty Jean Brown, Elsie Perdue, Lillian Knisely, Edna Wade, Lucille Washburn, Clyde Taylor, Sammie Perdue, Paul Moore, Kenneth Finley, Helo Stewart, Billy Sweet, Milton Armstrong, Bob Wilkinson, Royal and Truman Cox, and Miss Lucille Chapman and Miss Mary Bruner, directors of the clubs.

The group will take in associate members at the age of 18 but active members must be over 21 years. They expect to become a part of the state and national organization. Regular quarterly meetings will be held in January, April, July and October.

Musical numbers were furnished by N. Masuda, Margaret Kawahara, Rose Shinto and Kimi Matsukane.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Frank Takenaga, Stanton; first vice president, Kiyoushi Higashi, Santa Ana; second vice president, Clarence Nishizu, Buena Park; executive secretary, Yonaka Dobashi, Yorba Linda; corresponding secretary, Mae Asari, Redlands; treasurer, Shigenaki Nagamatsu, Huntington Beach; auditor, Jennie Tanaka, Anaheim; representative members at large, S. Nagamatsu, Talbert; Roy Kane-gawa, Huntington Beach; Leonard Miyawaki, Irvine.

THE UNKNOWN BLOOD

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAVID BANNIESTER undertakes to find out who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader and former newspaper man. He works on the murder case with GAINES, star reporter on the coast. Among those suspected are JULIET FRANCE, blond, pretty and known to have visited King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCUR-LACK who wrote King a threatening letter; and JOE PARROTT, down-and-out vaudeville actor. It is also known that MELVINA HOL-LISTER, middle-aged spinster, had quarreled with King recently. He is found dead in a wrecked automobile.

Bannister persuades the police chief to let Juliet come to his apartment, ostensibly as a guest, on the theory that if the girl believes herself free they can learn more about her.

Melvina Hollister is found strangled in the apartment where she lived with her brother, Matthew. Her death leaves him sole heir to $150,000.

PARKER COLEMAN, NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Bannister glanced over his shoulder and saw the table next to them was deserted. The waiter had disappeared. There was no one to overhear what he said. He went on rapidly.

"Matthew Hollister isn't doing any grieving over his sister's death. He's planning a trip to Hawaii, going around all dressed up, talking about spending money and having a lively time. I've found out that while his sister was alive Matthew hadn't a cent except what she gave him—and that wasn't much. Now he's got $150,000."

"Melvina was a crank, bossing and scolding him. It looks to me as though Matthew decided he'd stood that about as long as he wanted to. Either that or Melvina finally went too far."

"You mean," Coleman interrupted, "that you think Hollister killed his sister?"

"It happened before, hasn't it? There's every motive in the world. All this time the police have been running around looking for suspects, arresting people and trying to make them confess while Matthew Hollister's been there and nobody bothered about him. He tried to direct suspicion to his sister after Tracy King died but that didn't work. He was panicky and hysterical after Melvina's death. Why? Because he knew what he'd done."

"I tell you, the whole thing checks! He's so certain no one suspects him that he isn't afraid to go around in new clothes, talking about a trip to Cuba. He's probably getting things arranged so he won't have to come home for a year if he doesn't want to."

"But—Matthew Hollister!" Coleman said slowly. "On the level, I can't believe it. He seems like such a harmless duck."

"He seems that way, but what do you know about him? What does anyone know about him? Not a thing. They told me at the Shelby Arms that he scarcely ever spoke to anyone. Just came and went. Besides there's such a thing as repression. For years he's been doing as Melvina said, asking for money, having to be satisfied with what she gave him. You think he killed his sister, but

TUSTIN CLASS TO GIVE PLAY SOON

GLEE CLUBS OF BREA-CLINDA IN DINNER PARTY

BREA, Nov. 19.—Members of the combined glee clubs of the Brea-Clinda union high school held a dinner in the cafeteria of the high school Friday night, with Bill Thaten acting as toastmaster.

The program opened with short talks given by Russell Allen, Lorraine Muzzall and June Massey on harmony, melody and rhythm. Hope McConnell favored with two piano numbers. A tap dance was given by Olive Woolver, Bernice Taylor and Maurine Beddows. Nelson Koger, of Orange, sang "My Dreams" and "The Builder," being accompanied at the piano by Miss Alice DesLarzes, also of that city.

The decorating committee, comprising Bernice Taylor, Opal Neal and Edith Hall, used a color scheme of orange and green in table appointments and these colors were used in the place cards which were made by Olive Woolver and Billy Perdue. The program was in charge of Miss Woolver and Gloria Mellesner had charge of dinner arrangements.

Others of the clubs present were Gladys and Cordius Jackson, Betty Jean Brown, Elsie Perdue, Lillian Knisely, Edna Wade, Lucille Washburn, Clyde Taylor, Sammie Perdue, Paul Moore, Kenneth Finley, Helo Stewart, Billy Sweet, Milton Armstrong, Bob Wilkinson, Royal and Truman Cox, and Miss Lucille Chapman and Miss Mary Bruner, directors of the clubs.

OLD TREES REMOVED
SEAL BEACH, Nov. 19.—On order of the city council, workmen have removed the two palm trees in front of the city hall which have been growing there for the past 30 years. The trees are to be replaced by smaller trees of a more ornamental variety.

The trees had grown to be two of the tallest of the many palms in Seal Beach. The reason for their removal was the fact that the roots had begun to raise and crack the sidewalk.

LA HABRA, Nov. 19.—The J. B. Club of La Habra met Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Brewer following a 7 o'clock dinner at the Heldman cafe. Prizes in the games of "500" were won by Mrs. Bruce Stanford, and R. E. Launer, high, and Mrs. William Gluth and W. F. Helden, low.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Willis D. Threlkeld, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Launer, Mr. and Mrs. William Gluth, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Muehler, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Channing, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Helden and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stanford.

ALAMITOS SOCIETY PRESENTS PROGRAM

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 19.—Over 125 persons attended the annual entertainment given at the Alamitos Friends church by members of the Missionary society for their husbands and members of their family.

Mrs. Paul Younger, president of the organization, was in charge of the program, which opened with invocation by the Rev. Paul Younger and devotions led by Mrs. Lavina Rice, Marjorie Poff, Charles Moolick, Vera Rae Long, Floyd Younger, Mrs. Frank Everett, Miss Dorsey Barnes and Miss Evelyn Rhoder playing violins and pianos. Several numbers. A trio consisting of Mrs. Alice Robertson, Mrs. Esther Mendall and Miss Mabel Bumgardner sang a group of numbers.

A one-act play entitled "A Lunch in the Country" was presented by the following members: Mrs. Esther Mendall, hostess; Mrs. Lillian Jones, mother-in-law of the hostess; Mrs. O. Broady, deaf woman; Mrs. Paul Younger, Mrs. Carl Nichols, Miss Jennie Hoover and Mrs. Rhoder, guests of the luncheon; Nancy Nichols, daughter of the hostess; Margaret Smith, taking the part of the two servants, Mary and Ellen.

At the close of the program refreshments of pie, sandwiches and coffee were served by a committee headed by Mrs. W. O. Broady.

"There's just one thing," Bannister told him. "We've got to find the gun Hollister used to kill Tracy King."

"You think that will be easy?" "Maybe not. But I've an idea it's not as difficult as it seems."

"How're you going to do it?" "Well, I'll tell you."

They entered, closing the softly behind them. The room of the apartment with its fashionable furnishings, was Bannister remembered it. This was the chair in which Melvina Hollister's body had been found. There was the sofa, backed against the wall, the rocking chair and two other chairs with squares of crocheted lace on their backs. The table and book case and even the footstool were in their accustomed places.

Bannister and Coleman stood still for an instant. Some where in the distance they heard the low monotonous sound of a vacuum cleaner. Otherwise the place was silent.

Gingerly Coleman stepped forward, starting toward a door. "Not there!" Bannister said in a hushed voice. "That's Melvina's bedroom."

He led the way into a narrow hall with a half-open door at the end.

"Is this Hollister's room?" Coleman asked.

"Yes."

"We'll have to have some light."

"Pull down the shades first," Bannister instructed. A moment later the shades were lowered and the room was aglow with light. Then, methodically, the two men set to work.

SEEK MEXICAN AFTER SHOOTING IN POOL HALL

Border patrols and state officers are conducting a wide search for Ysidore Aguilar, 25, of Corona Camp, La Habra, who is accused of perhaps fatally wounding Art Molina, proprietor of a cafe and pool room in Corona camp, with a .22 rifle Saturday night.

Sheriff's officers and Constable William Tremaine of La Habra searched the Mexican camps of the county after the shooting in a vain attempt to locate Aguilar, who left the scene of the shooting on foot. Witnesses reported that Aguilar came to the door of the cafe and fired without warning at Molina, with the bullet hitting him above the left eye and emerging behind the ear. He is seriously hurt but is given a fair chance to recover.

Friends of Molina pursued the alleged assailant but he eluded them in the rain. Tremaine and Deputies James Workman and G. F. McKelvey were called to aid in the search and a description of Aguilar was broadcast over the state. He is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds.

Witnesses said that Aguilar disappeared with Molina over a liquor bill and left the cafe in an angry mood. When he reappeared in the door and shot at the cafe owner, they said that the gun jammed to prevent him from firing again.

If Aguilar is arrested, he will be charged with assault with a deadly weapon. It was declared by officers.

Court Notes

William Hunter, charged with drunkenness, was given a 10 day suspended sentence by Judge J. G. Mitchell Saturday.

Herman Sotelo, 43, La Habra, was arrested in La Habra Saturday night for non-support of minor children on a warrant from the Santa Ana justice court. Deputy Sheriffs G. F. McKelvey and James Workman served the warrant.

Shirtless Washington in Hiding

The 20-ton statue of George Washington without a shirt, shown here, an outcast in the nation's capital for 93 years, has found a resting place at last—in an obscure chapel of the Smithsonian Institution. The work of Horatio Greenough, noted British sculptor, it cost more than $20,000, delivered in Washington, in 1841. A great assemblage was shocked when the unveiled showed the First Citizen garbed after the fashion of a careless Roman senator. After resting in a shed for years, it was sent to the Smithsonian, and finally relegated to its new hiding place.

Politically Speaking

BY GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 19.—(UP)—Cost of government, budgets and taxation are three general topics of conversation which are causing a general jittery feeling among state officials.

The state deficit, decreasing revenues and the necessity for levying new taxes are admittedly at the top of the legislative list, and are demanding more attention now than anything else. But most of the financial experts will not talk about them for publication.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam's department heads are working on proposed budgets for the next biennium. When they are completed, there must be prepared a program for producing new revenues to balance the budget. The governor will have a general budget and tax program to submit to the legislature in January, but until plans are completed, little will be said concerning amounts, or new revenues.

Even Fred E. Stewart, equalization board member who usually is full of suggestions, will voice none of his ideas on taxation, except to say he believes the ad valorem tax can be avoided.

Discussion of proposed income tax, ad valorem tax, increased sales and gasoline taxes and other possible revenue measures is frowned upon pending completion of investigations, estimates of needed increases, and determination of budgets.

Nobody wants to put his head above the firing line until he can determine the accuracy of sharpshooters who are bound to oppose new taxation proposals. And new taxes will be necessary to keep the state in operation.

Merriam is going about his work carefully. He prefers to investigate every angle and have a basis for his decisions before disclosing what he hopes to do. "It would be foolish to plan something now and investigate it afterward," is his attitude.

He has found that the combination of weighty problems and demands of an ever-present crowd in his outer office have lengthened his hours far beyond those he expected to keep. Instead of quitting his office at 5 p. m. he frequently works until midnight. He manages to accomplish much more at night, when he is not interrupted by hordes of job-seekers, advice vendors and well wishers.

It is considered extremely doubtful whether the legislature will act on old age pensions, unemployment insurance or other social improvements which are believed to be federal, rather than state, problems. Merriam will ask the legislature to give every cooperation to President Roosevelt in those matters, but will shy away from the state unemployment insurance and improved old age pensions, for fear such developments would attract more and more unemployed and destitute people to California.

The Republican platform carried old age pension, shorter working day and week proposals, but these will not have administration support except insofar as they are

MIX CIRCUS TO GIVE PARADE BEFORE SHOW

Although practically every large circus discontinued parading several years ago, the management of the Tom Mix Wild West and Circus combined, which will show here next Friday, not only has continued this popular feature, but has elaborated on it until this season they promise one of the most gorgeous parades ever presented by any circus.

More animals, more horses, more beautiful girls, clowns, bands, trappings and paraphernalia. A mile of wonders, with the old time callopes and everything. Another feature worth mention is the fact that the entire parade (horses and elephants excluded) moves through the downtown streets propelled by motor power, this being the largest completely motorized circus in the world.

"The auto trucks alone are worthy of the name parade being all new the past 60 days and more than bear out the public's claim that this is truly 'The Circus Beautiful'." J. S. Williamson, advance agent said.

The parade will pass on the downtown streets at noon on Friday, November 28, after which there will be both afternoon and evening performance on the Pomona street circus grounds.

devised to balance a national program.

Fred Stewart hopes to have two conferences with legislation and tax experts in mid-December to work out some definite ideas on taxation measures. He will attend a meeting of the National Tax Administrators association, of which he is president, in French Lick Springs, Ind., December 3 and 4, and after that he plans to have a program outlined.

FLYING AROUND With Dale Deckert

Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth, local medical examiner for the air commerce department, informs us that pilots taking their physical examination each year from him keep themselves in excellent physical condition. He also said that the number of new student pilots is constantly on the increase, which shows a healthy condition for the aircraft industry in the future.

Bill Cheny, Santa Ana, who now is associated with the Mim Flying service at Union Air Terminal in Los Angeles, is adding plenty of hours in his log book teaching students in his new Minner monoplane. Whenever his students are taking cross country practice flights, Bill always heads them towards Eddie Martin's Airport to get a little local "hangar flying."

Nearly all airplane manufacturers are from two to eight months behind on orders for new airplanes. The probable chief cause for this condition is due to the fact that faster and safer airplanes are being designed daily, making it necessary for air line operators to meet their competition. The sales in sport planes is far in advance of any previous year since the air commerce act was adopted in 1926.

Floyd Waterman and Joe Hicks, local flyers employed by the air commerce department, have returned to Santa Ana after an absence of six months. They were engaged in installing new government emergency landing fields in the northwest.

According to Major-General Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the Army Air corps, the pursuit plane is no longer the backbone of a nation's force. This type of plane, he says, has been supplanted by the huge bombers which are not easy prey for the smaller and faster planes and are protected by their own guns.

Having found the airplane the most effective means of patrolling the coasts and preventing the smuggling of aliens, the coast guard is adding 19 new planes to the 17 already in use.

Beginning— THE NEW DEAL AND THE JONESES

A Continued Story In Which A Typical American Family Talks About America's Problems

This is the beginning of a continued story in which the members of a typical American family will discuss the many phases of the New Deal and the good and the bad of what's happening as it appears to the Joneses. Follow the story daily for a new insight into the New Deal's far-reaching effects.

BY WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

CHAPTER 1

PA JONES tossed the evening paper onto the living room table. "This whole New Deal business has got me all crossed up!" he groused. "I can't figure out where I am from one day to another, or where all this stuff is leading the country. It's worse'n a five-ring circus!"

The family turned in their chairs and looked at Pa, astonished. He didn't often speak right up in meeting like that. For John Jones is just the average head of the average family. And the Joneses are just The People Across the Street.

"Take us," Pa Jones went on. "The government's got a hand in everything we do these days. We pay our mortgage interest to the government. Our savings account is guaranteed by the government. Hours and pay down at the store are set by agreement with the government."

"The dividend we're going to get next week on our account in the busted First-Fidelity Bank comes from an RFC loan. Joe Barnett's youngest boy is in one of those CCC camps. The Millers, down the street, are on relief."

"Even the money I've got"—and here he jingled a few coins in his pants pocket—"has been juggled around until you don't know what it's worth. It's the government here, the government there, and the government everywhere!"

"Bread went up another cent a loaf yesterday," chimed in Ma Jones. "Isn't that the government's doing, with those processing taxes and codes and all that? And I had to pay $1.50 for one of those shirts I always used to get you for $1.25."

"You can't tell a Republican from a Democrat any more—the parties are all jumbled up," went on Pa Jones. "They're trying to change the whole look of the country, with this planting forests on old farms, building big dams and lakes in the wilderness to make more power where there aren't any factories, and irrigate land where there aren't any farms."

"The more I think of it, the more I think it's a revolution. The government used to let you alone. If you didn't murder or steal,

The government is nothing but all of us working together, Dad, and it's through all of us that the improvements of the future are going to come.

you never thought about the government, only when you voted or paid taxes. It figured that if everybody tended to his business, the country would be all right. "Now the government's in your business, in your home, in your pants pocket, in everything."

Sink or Swim Together "No, dad," spoke up John Jones Jr. "The trouble with you is that you think about things the way they used to be 40 years ago, when you were just starting out. It isn't that way any more. The country's 'groun' up now."

Everybody's close together. We found that out in 1929—that unless practically everybody is prosperous, nobody is prosperous. Maybe you don't like it, but we all sink or swim together today. "The government's the only thing that represents everybody."

So it has to take part in these things. It does in practically every other country."

"Well, I admit the government's got to step into a lot of things it didn't use to bother with," returned Pa Jones. "But it ought to do it in just as few cases as it can; only when it's absolutely necessary to prevent some kind of steal."

Up to All of Us "I don't agree with that," came back Jones Jr. "I think that the government is in our private lives and businesses, and that it ought to go ahead. The government is nothing but all of us working together, and it's through all of us that the improvements of the future are going to come."

"For instance, in this New Deal, there's no use in just setting things back on their feet and trying to get back where we were in 1928. Even if we did, what would it mean? Another smash-up sooner or later, and probably worse."

"We've got to fix it so that won't happen again. And who's going to do it? All of us—and that's the government!"

"Ma says bread went up. That's right, but it went up so the farmers and the bread wagon drivers could get more money. Shifts went up, but they went up so the cotton farmers and the mill workers could get more money."

"And until all these people do get more money, we aren't going to get anywhere, anyway."

Pa's for the Old Ways Pa Jones shook his head. "We got along all right up to a few years ago by everybody minding his own business," he said. "We had, and we still have, the best country in the world. I don't see any sense in turning everything upside down."

"Of course I agree with you," chimed in John Jr. "It is the best country in the world. But it isn't as good as it's got to be. Up to this depression, it kept getting better all by itself, sort of. Then it stopped."

"It didn't get better all by itself any more. Now I think we've got to get together and make it better. And I'm dead sure we can. We've got to!"

"Don't you forget, young fellow, that I've got 40 years of experience in business. I still know more about what'll work and what won't than some of you young fellows!" Pa Jones' voice began to rise. "Some of these things are against all experience. They won't work!"

Vision Is Essential

"Sure, dad," John Jr. rejoined. "You've got more experience and more knowledge than I have. But maybe I see some things that you don't see, too."

"Don't we have to work it out together? Can't we use both your experience and my hopes? I have to look farther ahead than you do—"

"Now, boys," Ma Jones cut in. "You eat your suppers. That's far enough to look ahead right at this minute. Tomorrow—"

NEXT: Relief: Pa Jones is worried about the burden of relief—is this crushing weight going to save us, or sink us?

GIVE PROGRAM FOR CANTANDO CLUB CONCERT

After a final rehearsal tonight, Cantando club members will be in readiness for the concert with which tomorrow night they will launch their ninth season. The concert, beginning promptly at 8:15 o'clock, will be given in the auditorium of Orange Union High school.

Leon Eckles, founder and director, and the chorus organization of seventy men, have been preparing for this season's work over a period of many weeks. They have arranged a well balanced program for the opening event, at which Miss Mary Tetsworth, Los Angeles soprano, will be introduced as guest artist. She will sing two groups, both chosen to add variety to the program, arranged as one of wide and varied appeal to all musical tastes.

On the first half of the program Miss Tetsworth will sing "Depuis le jour" from the opera "Louise" by Charpentier; "Arietta de Richard Cœur de Lion" by Gevaert; "The Nightingales of Lincoln's Inn" by Oliver, and "Life" by Curran. For her songs on the second half of the program, the soprano has announced "The Old Refrain" by Kreiser; "To Stay at Home is Best" (Mednikoff); "Clouds" (Charles) and "We Company Along" by Hageman.

Club members will of course open the program, the first group, preceding the solo numbers, including "Morning Hymn" by Henschel; "Carpathian Folk Song" by Stair, and "The Trumpeter" by Dix. Just before intermission and following the first of Miss Tetsworth's solo groups, will be "Calm as the Night" by Carl Bohm, and a Christmas number, "Good King Wenceslas" by Lefebvre. Immediately following intermission will be the first ensemble group, including "Creation Hymn" by Mohr, and "I Love the Moon" by Rubens. After the final solo group the men will sing a Bohemian folk song, a Scottish folk song, and a Negro spiritual, "Reapers' Song." "The Campbells are Coming" and "Joshua Fit de Battle of Jericho," and close the concert with Rachmaninoff's majestic "Glorious Forever."

Miss Ruth Armstrong, who has been official accompanist ever since the club was founded, will be assisted tomorrow night by Dudley Page Harper, W. S. Briggs, well known flutist of the community, is president of the organization this year.

McKay, high, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stevenson, low. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the games. The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Suesse, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McKay, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Miller.

Hold Examination For Federal Job

An open competitive examination for the government position of principal pathologist in work with cotton and other fiber crops and diseases, was announced today by the United States Civil Service commission.

The position is with the bureau of plant industry, department of agriculture, and pays a salary of $5600 a year, subject to a deduction of not to exceed five per cent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy, and also to a deduction of three and a half per cent toward a retirement annuity. Closing date for the examination is December 10, 1934.

Full information may be secured from Frank Cannon, secretary of the United States Civil Service board of examiners at the Santa Ana postoffice.

LA BRACHE IS NEW MANAGER AT SEARS STORE

Announcement of the appointment of Wendell C. La Brache as manager of the Santa Ana Sears, Roebuck & Co., store was made today. He came here directly from Tucson, Arizona, to take charge of the local store.

La Brache has been with the company for five years, with experience mostly in the East and Middle West in all types and sizes of Sears stores and departments. He has been in the Pacific Coast since March, 1934, working as assistant manager at Fullerton, Santa Ana and Tucson.

He was born in Oregon but spent most of his life in Washington, having attended, high school and the University of Washington in Seattle. He has been interested in sports of all kinds, having participated in all branches of sport and student activity in high school and as a member of the varsity football and baseball squads of the University of Washington. While in college he was prominent in student activities and was a member of the leading clubs and honorary fraternities. He is a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

When graduated from Washington, he became associated with the Sears company and has been with the large concern ever since. He believes there is a great opportunity for young men with the company, as it is the largest retail merchandising organizations in the world and is always on the watch for energetic and hard working young men.

La Brache expressed a keen appreciation at being stationed in Santa Ana, declaring he likes the town and the people in the community. He believes there is great promise of excellent business conditions ahead. He extended an invitation to everyone in the community to visit the Sears store, where he said a personal welcome would await everyone.

MISS MOORE TO WED

BREA, Nov. 19.—Invitations are being received by friends of Miss Caroline Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Elwood Moore, of this city, to attend her wedding to John Dietrich of the U. S. Navy on the evening of November 27. The ceremony will be performed at the Congregational church, with the Rev. Donald F. Gaylord officiating.

HOW'S YOUR BLOOD?

Mrs. L. O. Darling of 856 Temple St., Santa Bernardino, Calif., said: "My blood was in very poor condition, I had many boils and felds when I was a young girl growing into womanhood, and nothing seemed to help my condition. I had taken but Pinner's Golden Medical Discovery when my complexion and blood were in perfect order." All druggists. New size, tablets 30 cts, liquid $1.00.

INVITE PARENTS TO J. C. PATRONS MEET

Parents of students at the Santa Ana Junior college have been invited to attend a meeting of the College Patrons in the college library at Tenth and Main streets next Thursday evening.

The College Patrons is affiliated with the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, and was formed after the division of the junior college from the high school campus. Mrs. Marie Beisel is president of the group and will be in charge of the meeting next week.

Yule Program Is Planned In Brea

BREA, Nov. 19.—Mrs. A. J. Barnes, superintendent of the Congregational church school, has announced plans for a white Christmas program to be held at the church and with the various classes of the church contributing assistance and gifts which are to be given for community welfare. J. Howard Robinson's class of boys will make arrangements for the tree and Mrs. C. B. Neigley's class will purchase the Christmas candy. Toys which can be repainted or mended are being solicited by one of the classes of girls and these may be left with the pastor during his study hours. A program is being prepared with all the classes to take a part.

Dating Bureau Organized At Jaycee

"I want a girl with blonde hair, about 5 feet 4 and enjoys movies." That might be a sample of conversation to be heard soon in the newest addition to the Santa Ana Jaycee campus — a college dating bureau.

Stanley Wilson, bold freshman student, has organized his dating office and hopes to list 150 cards in his files. He will compile an accurate description of each girl, her likes and dislikes, and other data.

After that, all Wilson will need is some chivalrous young collegians to apply for a date. If he's wise, however, he might buy a set of false whiskers to prevent being exterminated by a disgruntled client on the "morning after."

HOUSES BROKEN OPEN

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 19.—A number of cottages east of Dolphin avenue on Seal Way have been broken into lately, according to reports to the police department. Investigation has revealed that nothing has been taken so it is believed the acts were committed by itinerants seeking sleeping quarters. The cottages are those of summer residents and are left vacant throughout the winter.

Bazaar Arranged By Church Group

BREA, Nov. 19.—Women of the Congregational church guild will hold a bazaar and chicken dinner in the social hall of the church from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. A business meeting of the guild will be held during the afternoon at which time election of officers for the following year for the combined guild and Missionary Society will be held.

Following the dinner the Rev. E. D. Gaylord, of Los Angeles, superintendent of the Southern California Conference, will speak on "What the Conference Means to Us," continuing the series of world-service evenings. Next Sunday, in response to a request from the Brea Woman's club, the pastor will preach on the theme, "Saving the Homes of America. Union Thanksgiving services will be held at 2 a. m. at the Congregational church on November 29.

School Crowd Invited For Evening Of Enjoyable Dancing

As the holiday season nears with its promise of gay hospitality, members of the younger school set find much to engage their interest, and last week enjoyed dancing as guests of Miss Frances Hall in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert B. Hall, 2027 North Ross street.

Mrs. Hall made the home bright with flowers to receive her daughter's young friends, and she and Dr. Hall were assisted by their son, Hubert Hall Jr., Perry Planchon, and Mrs. and Mrs. J. H. Daniger, in the various pleasant features of the evening.

Dancing was to music of a request program broadcast by Radio KRBB. There were featured numbers including a Paul Jones tag and balloon dances. As an interlude the young people found supper partners and enjoyed the contents of daintily wrapped boxes each packed for two.

Miss Frances had as her guests, the Misses Janet McFadden, Barbara McFadden, Maxine Bird, Natalie Nelson, Janet Coffins, Phyllis Bemis, Virginia Jordan, Doris Jesse, Vivian Jordan, Rosemary Blodgett and their escorts, Bruce Ragan, Howard Rapp, Lawrence Coffins, Dexter Ball, Billie Lowe, Hugh Lowe, Henry Segerstrom, Donald Crawford and Arthur Beard.

Launching a membership drive which is to conclude on March 1, 1935, members of Ernest L. Kellogg V.F.W. auxiliary began activities under their new president, Mrs. Esther Hendrickson, when they met Friday night in Knights of Pythias hall.

Miss Minnie Besser was named patriotic instructor to succeed Mrs. Anna McCleary, who had resigned to take over the post of second color bearer.

Mrs. Hendrickson appointed as committee heads, Irene Stewart, ways and means; Anna McCleary, membership; Edna Camm, publicity; Janie Kelsey, hospital; Juanita Cozad, Minnie Besser, Agnes Hopkins, visitation; Rose Edwards, flowers; Eva Dusenberry, relief.

Those named to take charge of entertainment and refreshments for the various months were Juanita Cozad, Beatrice Besser, Cora Gillespie, Belle Spangler, December and January; Irene Stewart, Ella Laughlin, Katherine Reagan, Maggie Householder, February and March; Minnie Besser, Phoebe Hyatt, Pearl Hartman, Mrs. Miles, April and May; Rose Edwards, Janie Kelsey, Dena Isbell, Mrs. E. W. Sweeney, June and July; Anna McCleary, Fay Meister, Luella Randal, Agnes Hopkins, August and September; Edna Camm, Eva Dusenberry, Elzora Area, Effie Hawley, October and November.

Miss Minnie Besser and Mrs. Eva Dusenberry were appointed on a committee to purchase dolls to be given to needy children at Christmas time. The dolls will be dressed at an all day meeting to be held Friday, December 7, in the home of Mrs. Edna Camm, 1101 East First street. Covered luncheon will be served at noon.

Visitors at the meeting included Alma Troeller of Fullerton, department color bearer, and Zelpha Pierson, president of Fullerton V.F.W. auxiliary.

Miss Charlotte Hienack of Denver, Colo., arrived last week for an extended visit with her aunt, Mrs. W. C. Davis, 1821 West Eighth street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ulrich and sons and daughters, Kenneth, Wesley and the Misses Florence and Harriet Ulrich of Lemon Heights, were dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Johnson and daughter, Ruth, of A street, Tustin.

Mrs. George Paul Jr. of El Modena is at St. Joseph hospital where she underwent a major operation Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King, Mrs. Edith Thatcher and Mrs. DeWitt Dudley were among Santa Anas who attended the Oberlin Alumni association reunion Saturday afternoon at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena. They attended various talks and demonstrations of interest, were taken on a tour of the university buildings, and greeted many friends among the alumni.

Judge and Mrs. H. B. Griffin and son, Allen Griffin of Brawley, were week-end guests of Mrs. Lillian D. Pritchett, 1321 North Ross street.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Johnson and their daughter, Anita Jean, returned yesterday evening to their home, 1919 Greenleaf street, after a week-end trip to Boulder Dam, where they saw the features of interest in Boulder City as well as the various construction projects of the dam.

Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, 614 East Third street, arrived Saturday from Huntsville, Mo., where she had taken the remains of her husband, the late Felix Aubuchon, for burial in the family plot. She was accompanied on the trip by her niece, Mrs. E. G. McCrary of Los Angeles. Mr. McCrary met them in Los Angeles and he and Mrs. Aubuchon to her home here, and remained for Sunday.

A pleasant surprise party was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, in honor of Mrs. Clark's birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served and Mrs. Clark was presented with many beautiful gifts.

WINTERSBURG

Prominent Bridal Pair Wedded at Rites in "Our Village"

Shaggy white and gold chrysanthemums, green fern fronds and white candles in tall candelabra embellished the altar of Laguna Beach Presbyterian church for the marriage rites yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock of Miss Hazel Gullbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gullbert, San Juan Capistrano, and Dr. Herbert Stroschein of this city, son of Mrs. F. K. Stroschein, of San Juan Capistrano.

A pipe organ program was played by Mrs. Ray I. Brahams and the musical interval included the solos, "All For You" (Brown) and "Beloved It Is Morn" (Aylward-Hickey) sung by John Braucher of Riverside.

The Rev. Hugh McNinch, pastor of San Juan Capistrano Presbyterian church, read the service in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in the traditional white satin made with sweeping train. Her fingertip length veil of misty tulle was arranged in halo effect with lilies of the valley. She carried an exquisite lace handkerchief of Florentine handwork, loaned by Mrs. John Danerl, and her bridal bouquet was fashioned of white rosebuds, lilies of the valley and bouvardia.

Mrs. Waldon Pink of Pomona attended her cousin as matron of honor and wore gold crepe. Her formal bouquet was of tallismans roses with chrysanthemums. Miss Margery Adams of Santa Ana wearing chrysanthemum crepe, and Miss Mabel Cooper, principal of San Juan Capistrano grammar school, wearing rust crepe, were bridesmaids. Both carried arm clusters of chrysanthemums tied with brown satin ribbons, and wore hats of brown velvet and net.

Following the ceremony Dr. Stroschein and his bride lingered in the church vestibule to receive good wishes of their friends. They were joined by their attendants and by Mr. and Mrs. Gullbert and Mrs. F. K. Stroschein. The two mothers completed effective costumes with corsage bouquets of roses and chrysanthemums.

After a wedding dinner at Las Ondas cafe, Dr. and Mrs. Stroschein left for a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, the bride wearing a hunter's green suit banded with fur and green dress accessories. They will return to make their home in Santa Ana where Dr. Stroschein is engaged in dental practice.

He is a native son of San Juan Capistrano, member of one of the pioneer families of the section. After graduating from high school there he attended Santa Ana Junior college and University of Southern California where he majored in dentistry. He is a member of Delta Sigma Delta fraternity. His bride, who is a native of Kansas, has lived in the Mission Village for the past ten years and graduated from high school there. Following two years of college work she accepted the position of secretary at San Juan Capistrano High school. She is prominent in Business and Professional Women's club and other civic, church and social organizations.

USE FUR FOR SMARTNESS AND FOR FLATTERY

PATTERN 2061

BY ANNE ADAMS

The fashion-wise woman knows that fur is being used excitingly in the trimming of the season's smartest frocks—the silhouette-conscious woman realizes the value of swirling jabots and trim skirts in transforming her figure into fluid lines of grace. For both fashion and flattery, this lovely frock has fur edging on its rippling jabot. Its well tailored raglan sleeves are cut wide at the wrist in one of the latest ways—its slim skirt boasts a panel, back and front, for slenderness. And the links at the throat add a final bit of chic to the youthful neckline. Of course, you may omit the fur!

Pattern 2061 is available in size 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 36 takes 43-45 yards 39 inch fabric and 21-23 yards fur banding. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Sorority Past Officer Received Gifts At Complimentary Tea

The R. R. Lee home, 2141 Greenleaf street, was rendezvous yesterday afternoon for a bevy of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority members of the University of Southern California chapter, when Miss Marthe Allen Lee, a past vice president of the chapter, complimented Miss M. L. K. Brown, junior past president, at a tea and silver shower. Miss Brown is soon to wed Randolph Speck of Glendale.

Mrs. Lee joined with her daughter in receiving guests, and in the receiving line were Miss Brown, her mother, Mrs. H. F. Brown, Mrs. Speck, mother of the future bridegroom, and three sorority members, Miss Dorothy Grizzle of this city, Miss Margerie Crawford of Los Angeles, president of the sorority alumnae of that city, and Miss Doris Kirkeby, past president of the active chapter and now vice president of the Long Beach alumnae.

There were nearly half a hundred guests to call with their good wishes for the bride-elect, enjoy the tea dispensed from a charmingly appointed table at which Mrs. Brown was seated, and add their gifts of silver to the joint shower for the honor guest, Miss Brown.

Neighborhood Party Honors Bride-to-Be

Miss Ruth Stonebarger, whose marriage to Harry Parker of Grand Canyon, Ariz., is anticipated as an event of December, was complimented at a neighborhood gathering given late last week in the home of Mrs. Vincent Horian, 828 North Olive street.

Mrs. Horian and Mrs. H. W. Guthrie joined in entertaining, decking the rooms with colorful chrysanthemums. Appropriate games were played during the early part of the afternoon. Kitchen gifts in wide variety were showered on Miss Stonebarger as the hostesses brought in an umbrella laden with packages.

Refreshments of orange juice, chocolate cake, cookies and tea were served. Nut cups designed as traveling bags bore Grand Canyon tags, since the bride expects to make her future home in that scenic spot.

Guests of Mrs. Horian and Mrs. Guthrie, with Miss Stonebarger, were her mother, Mrs. S. A. Stonebarger, and Mesdames Margaret Grant, J. R. Richards, Thomas Tournet, John Ryan, C. M. Johnson, D. J. Haasett, E. H. Snyder, L. V. Meyers, S. H. Crump, H. A. Stearns and the Misses Margaret Guthrie, Harriet Stearns and Elizabeth Campbell.

Guests Learn of Plans For Thanksgiving Day Wedding

Plans for the marriage on Thanksgiving Day of Miss Kathryn (Kay) Bement and Kermit Maynard were revealed to a group of friends Friday night at a party given in the home of Miss Irene Boyer, 2011 North Ross street. The hostess' mother, Mrs. W. J. Morris, assisted in entertaining.

Announcement of the selected wedding day was made at the refreshment hour when yellow cellophane bags of rice served as favors. It was revealed that the ceremony will take place in First Methodist chapel Thursday, November 29, at 11 a. m., with Dr. George A. Warner officiating.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the home for the occasion. The early part of the evening was spent in playing buncos, with Mrs. John Taylor Jr. receiving a novelty lamp for scoring high.

A surprise feature of the evening was the presentation of miscellaneous shower gifts to Miss Bement. The packages had been placed in a cedar-lined walnut chest which was the gift of her fiancé. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Guests of Miss Boyer and Mrs. Morris were Miss Bement and her mother, Mrs. L. A. Bement, with Mesdames Scott Maynard, Kenneth Maynard, Robert L. Harmon, Forest Bennett, John Taylor Jr., Roland Lockhart, R. A. Lühring, J. S. Lewis, Frank Fairley, Verna R. Archibald, and the Misses Maxine Decker, Lucile Howell, Alberta Sanford, Kathryn Sexton, Marquette Lewis, Elisabeth Hurd, Louise Archibald, Phyllis Jamison, Susanna Alexander, Doris Rockwell, Suzanne Clark, Margaret Pollock, Nancy Holt, Eunice Bright, Violet Johnson, Evelyn Fairley, Norma Wilson.

Annual Formal Dance Attracts Many Guests to Clubhouse

Junior Ebbl society's annual formal dance Saturday night was a festive affair which drew approximately 125 couples to the clubhouse. Colorful with appointments in keeping with a Mexican desert theme, the peacock room was an ideal setting for such an evening of gaiety.

The arrival of a steady stream of guests started shortly after 9 o'clock, continuing until the dance floor was crowded to capacity. Mrs. Clarence Siemonsma and her committee were responsible for the sale of many of the tickets, with Mrs. Robert Heffner winning the prize which the chairman had offered to the most successful saleswoman.

Louise Shirey and her orchestra provided music for the occasion, playing from a stage enveloped with clever dancing figures which had been made by Mrs. Burt Zaiser, chairman of the decorating committee. Cactus plants in pots had been given an artistic touch so that the spiny stalks were white, blue or red. Gourds in all imaginable shapes had been placed about the room, and clusters of dates attested to the reality of palm branches which gave an oasis setting to the popular punch bowl.

Programs for the dance were bright-hued folders which completed the desert motif.

Patrons and patronesses were Mesdames and Messrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, John Tressmann, C. V. Davis, E. D. White and Fred Rowland. Mrs. Don Park, as president of Junior Ebbl, with Mr. Park, assisted in greeting guests. Miss Lolita M'ead, general chairman of the dance; Mrs. George Walker, publicity chairman; Miss Anne Tarver and Mrs. Dorothy Selway, in charge of punch; Mesdames A. K. Loerch Jr., Robert Heffner and John Newman. Mrs. Zaiser's assistants in decorating, together with other club members, were among those who added in dispensing hospitality throughout the evening. All proceeds from the event will be added to the club's welfare fund.

Many parties were given before the dance. These included affairs in the homes of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Bruning, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffner and Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Loerch Jr., all of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Terry of Anaheim.

Past Noble Grands

Torosa

The hospitality of White Gables, Mrs. W. C. Watkins' home at 1502 North Ross street, was enjoyed last week by members of Torosa Rebekah Past Noble Grands association. Roses provided decorations for the event. Luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock was a covered dish affair. Mrs. Maud Swarthout, vice-president, conducted a business meeting during which Mrs. Martha Vandewater was welcomed as a new member of the organization. She invited the group to have its Christmas party in her home, 1244 South Flower street, on the regular meeting day, Thursday, December 20. There will be a gift exchange at this time. Members regretted to learn that one of their number, Mrs. Bell Buck, a charter member of Torosa Rebekah lodge, is moving to Arizona.

Present with the hostess, Mrs. Watkins, were Mesdames Ethel Brown, Allie Cain, Ida Carey, Blanche Chandler, Mary Cooper, Mary Hertter, Laura Kesemann, Mary Kuhl, Maud Lentz, Lucile Lyman, Martha McKee, Lucille Rathbone, Ada Spencer, Maud Swarthout, Carrie Tope, Jean Tremble.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

Baked apple or sliced orange
Toasted shredded wheat biscuit
1/2 cup uncreamed milk and
1/4 tsp. sugar
1 cup coffee with
1/4 cup hot skim milk, no sugar.
Calory total....290.

It's time to do something about Christmas candied fruit. Last Christmas I was sent apple slices, halved peaches, pears and apricots, all deliciously candied. The method is original with the maker. She says that she uses DRIED peaches, pears and apricots. Plump them a bit by steaming, then boil in a heavy sugar syrup, simmering I should say, until most of the syrup has been absorbed by the fruit. The candied fruit is then placed on plates and slowly dried at room temperature (cupboards, even warming ovens will dry them). When quite dry, the candied sections are put between layers of waxed papers and kept in an airtight box until needed.

The dried fruit idea could be carried out in nearly everything. Dried steamed prunes, dried apple sections, should be quite as nice as any of the varieties named. With such boxes it would be nice to add candied strips of grapefruit and orange peel. More about these on Friday. (I have a short-cut way).

1 cup chopped cooked meat
1 small minced onion
1 tsp. butter
2 cups cooked rice
1 cup corn
1 tsp. chili powder, salt, pepper
1 can tomato juice

—Contributed.
Stute onion in butter, add to the chopped meat and combine with rice and corn. Sprinkle the teaspoonful of chili powder over the mixture and stir well, adding also, salt and pepper. Add the can of tomato juice, put mixture into a casserole and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Persimmon Pie

1 semi-baked pie shell
3 large ripe persimmons
2 cups top milk
2 eggs, 1 white beaten stiff
1/4 cup sugar
pinch of salt
2 tps. extra butter.

The persimmons must be so ripe they are mushy. Press through a ricer or sieve. Beat the whole egg and extra yolk to a thick froth with sugar, add the pinch of salt and combine with the persimmon pulp. Have the milk hot, and be sure it is top milk or thin cream, for this pie needs to be rich to be good. Pour hot milk into fruit-egg mixture, stir briskly and then fold in, or whip in, the stiffly beaten egg white. Pour this custard into the partly baked pie shell and bake for 10 minutes in a 400-degree oven, then reduce heat, dot top with the two tps. of butter you may think I forgot, and bake at slow heat (300 degrees) until the custard is nicely set.

I don't exactly like that clean knife blade test for custard pie mixtures. I like my custard pies, not a sort of rubber pavement effect. So-o-o-h, when my custard pies are cooked at the outer edge, and not too gooey at the center, they come out of the oven. The heat retained in the pie completes the cooking of center area.

An eighth section of this pie has a calory value of 325.

As Duncy on the fat frog sat, wee Goldy shouted, "Look at that! The frog is trying to toss him off, but Duncy's sticking tight."

"I hope that when the lad is through, he'll let me have a chance to do the same thing he is doing. I'm sure I would be all right."

Then Duncy loudly shouted, "Whoa! Hey, froggie, I don't want to go much farther. I am getting tired. I think I need a rest."

"You, too, should stop and catch your breath, or you will hop yourself to death. This is no way to treat you, 'cause, right now, you are our guest."

Then Scouty cried, "Aw, he won't stop till you are tossed, and take a flop. Then he will disappear from sight, and come back here no more."

"He knows we all will want a ride, and that would wear out his poor hide." Just then the frog threw Duncy, and it made the Tynmies roar.

"Gee whiz, your guess was pretty good! The frog did as you said he would," said little Duncy, as he quickly jumped up from the ground.

"The crazy thing has hopped from view, a lucky thing for all of you. If you were on his back, I know you'd not be safe and sound."

Back to the castle went the bunch, and Scouty said, "I have a hunch that there are lots more things to see out here. Let's look around."

The giant, who had been made small, exclaimed, "Sure! I don't mind at all. I'll take a nap, while you all search to see what can be found."

About a half an hour was spent, as through big rooms the Tynmies went. Then Scouty saw a door that had a window "way up high."

"Somebody run and get a chair. I'll stand on it and peek through there," he shouted to the others.

"Then I'll tell you what I spy."

MR. MOLEY DRAWS CONCLUSIONS FROM ELECTION

Last week we noted the attitude of the United States Chamber of Commerce on the "New Deal." Very clearly it had changed and we pointed out what we believed were the reasons for the change.

Primarily, this was that the leaders recognized that the country was much more radical than the president and that the president, at the very root of his purpose, must be considered the greatest bulwark of the present order.

Raymond Moley, who has been formerly assistant secretary of state, has been the one man who has been emphasizing these facts to the leaders of industry in this country. As has been suggested, he has been the liaison officer between the president's "new deal" program and these leaders.

After all, it is very probable that one can get the inside views and plans of the administration from Mr. Moley's activities and statements more clearly and certainly than he can from the president's speeches.

In the current issue of Mr. Moley's magazine "Today," he gives utterance to thoughts that may be very enlightening. Whether one agrees with him or not, these statements are important, because they undoubtedly reflect the attitude of the administration.

Let us quote the salient sentences from his editorial on the election, concerning which he writes under the topic of "The Country Goes Liberal":

It is not always easy to interpret the language of a vast number of people moving in mass. But in this case they apparently said, in substance, that they were absolutely in favor of maintaining the New Deal as a part of the permanent arrangements of economic society in this country. After the arguments of the advocates on both sides, the voters entered their order making final the decree of separation from the old Republican doctrines. The basic reforms of the New Deal thus became part of the order of things. Both parties should now center their attention on the issue of which is best able to administer this new order of things. Debate on its continuation is closed.

The election decided something else. It demonstrated that the voters want something more definite than mere change. They want a specific kind of change. Mr. Sinclair's defeat is of inestimable value to the cause of liberalism. In rejecting his vagaries, the voters have put wise limits to their wishes. LaFollette they will accept, and Shipstead, because these men, while to the left of Roosevelt, have an intelligible and workable conception of public policies. But those who thought we were drifting out beyond the bounds of the economic order in which we have been raised, have had a rude shock and a warning.

One gains a new respect for the wisdom of the voters. They want to move, but not merely for the sake of motion. They want to go places, but not just any place. And they want to do something, but not simply anything.

"WAR NEXT MAY"

We have read it in print, and we have heard it from a number of platforms from the lips of men of some prominence, that a war between Russia and Japan is scheduled to begin next May.

Now, wars do not come in such a deliberate way. To be sure, wars are apt to begin in the spring of the year. In our own history, the Revolution began in April; the War of 1812 with Great Britain began in June; the war with Mexico began in May; the Civil war began in April; the war with Spain began in April; and the World war, into which we entered in April, began three years earlier in August.

In most cases these wars were brought about by unanticipated events. The revolution began when the British soldiers marched to Concord to destroy munitions, said to have been stored there.

The Mexican war was on the cards. President Polk was looking for an excuse to begin it, and finally decided upon it when our minister, Slidell, was refused a hearing by the Mexican government concerning the annexation of California.

But a better excuse came a few days after when an American soldier was killed by Mexican troops, presumably on American soil. This has always been disputed, and it may be recalled that Lincoln, then in Congress, and opposed to the war with Mexico, introduced a resolution in the house asking that the exact spot of the shooting be identified. This was known as the "Spot Resolution."

We know that the firing upon Fort Sumter began the Civil war, and the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor began the war with Spain. While the World war was in the offing, it was the murder of the Austrian archduke that set it going.

All this illustrates that a war cannot be scheduled with accuracy. No nation courts war if it can accomplish its ends by diplomacy. It is when this fails, and relations between nations become strained, that any incident may start the flame of war. To predict the coming of war is absurd.

This is not to say that it is impossible. In fact a war between Japan and Russia is quite possible, if not probable. But we may be assured that neither country is eager for a war. War is too costly, and has too costly an aftermath. These countries know it.

If a war between these countries comes, it will come at a time of great strain when the most trivial incident may become the immediate cause. In the meantime, it is not only idle, but it is provocative to set precise dates for a possible war. Nations hesitate a long time before they let loose the dogs of war.

Y. W. C. A. OPENS CAMPAIGN

The campaign for funds for the Young Women's Christian Association is on this week. The devoted women, interested in this great organization, are making their calls upon the people of the city and certainly there is no more worthy institution than this organization working for the interests of the young women.

The Young Women's Christian Association has been doing an increasingly valuable and important work for 80 years. We usually think of the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian associations as identical in the nature of the work which they do for their respective groups.

This is not entirely true. The Young Women's Christian association has devoted itself more to the interest of young women who were unable to obtain and enjoy the advantages of club and recreational life.

The membership fee in the "Y. W." is rather a nominal amount. This brings to it many who, in the same economic standing as young men, would be unable to join the Y. M. C. A.

This means that the obligations are heavier upon those who would supply this need of companionship, social opportunity and the values of Christian leadership. We have had occasion to watch the amount of work done by various organizations with the means that has been placed at their disposal.

Most of the social and character-building agencies are directed by men. But the Y. W. C. A. is one which is supervised entirely by the women and we believe there is no organization which appeals for financial aid during the year, where there is a greater amount of work done and service rendered, for the dollar expended, than in the Young Women's Christian Association.

We do not believe that any organization, except one led by such a type of women, sincere, devoted and inspired by a great faith, could accomplish their great work with means so apparently inadequate.

Meet these women, who are presenting the cause of the "Y," with joy. Encourage them in their service and respond to them to the limit of your ability. You may know that they are furnishing you with a wonderful opportunity to make a most valuable investment in an enterprise in which you cannot lose.

Friendship on the Air

Christian Science Monitor

With the increasing popularity of all-wave radio receiving sets in American homes and in other nations, international developments in short-wave transmission are destined to have salutary effects if properly handled. Equipped with new, powerful transmitters, Italy's station ZRO is inaugurating a series of "American Hours," in which the nation's musical and cultural heritage will be shared with friends in the United States.

In the first program, selections from Puccini's "La Boheme" and a number of typical folk songs were played. An Italian athlete who led a tour of his fellows told of his visit to the United States. Later programs will intersperse commercial, literary and archeological activities in Italy with a program of sixteenth-century music, which has recently been revived through the efforts of the Royal Music Academy.

Granting that the program series, if also carried out by other countries now busy experimenting with short-wave radio, has excellent commercial possibilities in building up trade, shipping and tourist traffic, it also can become a factor in building up a closer understanding between peoples. Couched in the terms of music and descriptions of the daily life and hopes of individuals, it has a truer international ring than have diplomatic communiques and overtures about battleships. Perhaps what the peoples seek in a "world attuned to peace" may be realized, partly, by something so simple as tuning in.

What About Numbers

Riverside Enterprise

There is still a surprising belief in numerology or demonology, or something. Maybe it should be called "tredecology," meaning the science of the number 13. Whatever it be, it is about time we had done with it.

The poor old number 13 is almost extinct. Even the "baker's dozen" is no more. As for sitting at the thirteenth at a table, it's almost unheard of in these enlightened days. And caution goes much farther. The fellow who draws seat 13 in a theater always kicks up a fuss. Many refuse check No. 13 in a cloakroom. As for auto license with 13 in the figure combination, well, who wants to commit suicide? Hotels have to jump over the fatal figures in numbering rooms. And so on.

There is one curious fact, however, to set alongside of all the well-vouched-for cases of disaster connected with this Jonah number. Once in a long time you will run across some fellow who defies fact by deliberately welcoming number 13's, and who seems to not only get away with it but actually brag about it.

Bad luck, after all, is a coward, and its number may or may not be 13.

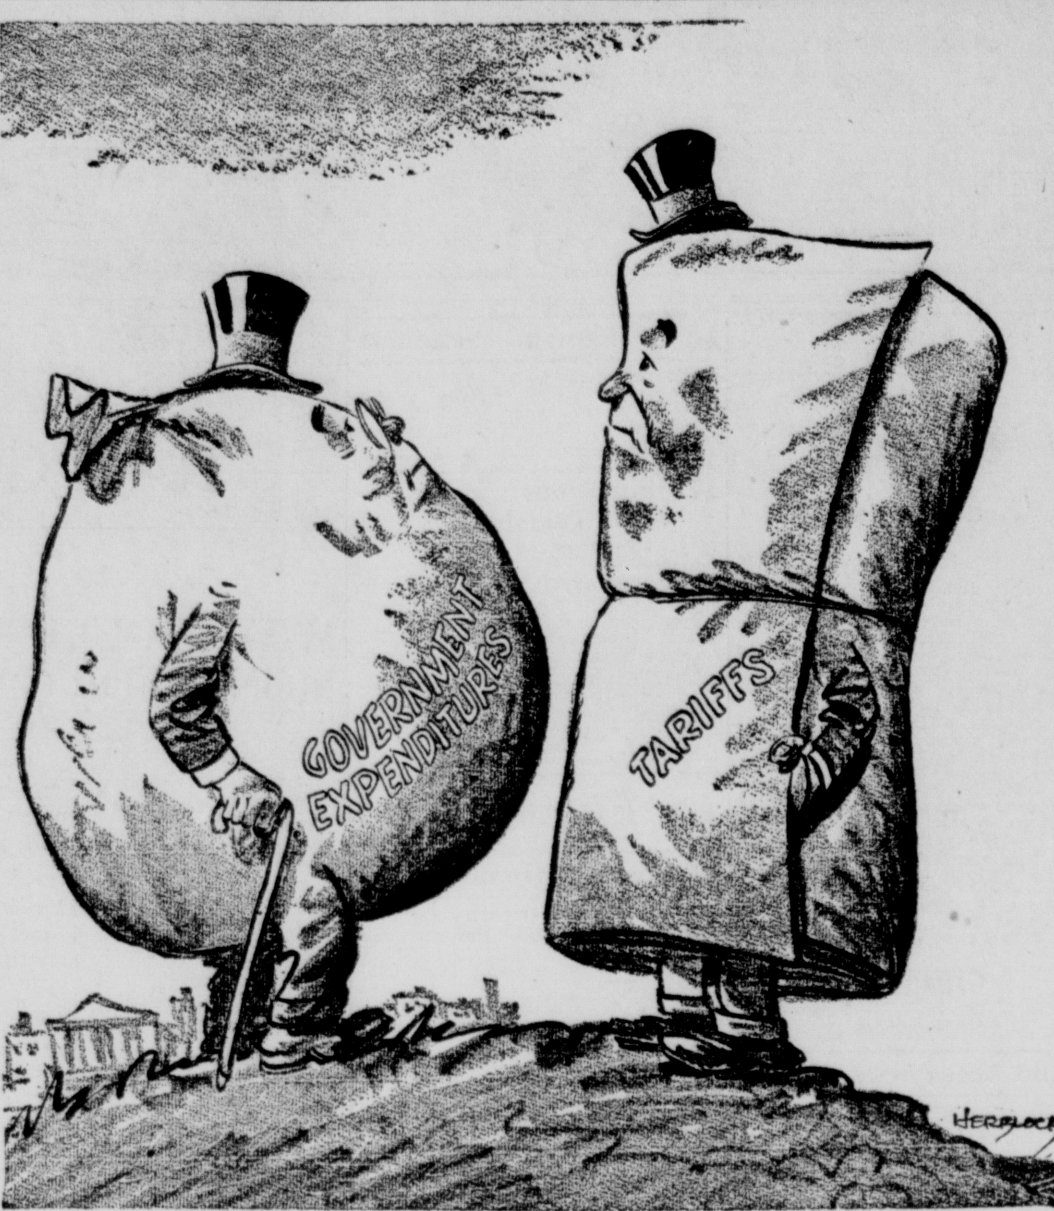

Practical

San Diego Union

Mussolini provided another pointer for the various dictators who are feverishly seeking new means of stimulating their national industries when he noticed that the beard of one of his generals was graying. "Your whiskers are getting gray," he announced, according to Time. "You had better have them off." And when the general obeyed, the weekly reports, bearded Fascist officers staged a barber's rush. We haven't seen the statistics yet but it is safe to predict great activity in the barber supply, razor and shaving soap industries. Of course the same device wouldn't work everywhere. In this country, for example, the razor producers anticipated Mussolini by a decade or so.

But the idea could be adapted to other fields. President Roosevelt might revive hoopskirts by decree, for example, and save U. S. Steel and the textile mills with one stroke.

"What's All This Talk About Streamlining?"

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE SHORT ROAD TO FAME

New York's Conservation Commissioner attributes the fame of New England to the poets who have lived and written there.

When Longfellow turned out his undying lays:
When Whittier took up his pen
And boosted the hills
And the rocks and the rills,
Which were known only locally then,
The book reading public cried, "Let's take a glance
At this spot on our northeastern shore,"
Which they thereupon did,
And New England was hid
'Mid its mountains and forests no more.

Don't let people tell you the rhyme writing boys
Are nothing but makers of song;
When a district needs ads
You can bank on these lads
To appeal to the maddening throng.
When they tune up their lyres and pluck at the strings,
The public is there with the cheers,
As it was when blind Homer,
That song-singing roamer,
Used to chant, back in dim distant years.

Let the Chambers of Commerce who think that their states
Are lagging behind the parade,
Ask the help, for a time,
Of the builders of rhyme,
Who have served long and well at their trade.
No commonwealth need remain hidden away;
If it hires some versatile chap
Its praises to sound,
It will shortly be found,
Securely ensconced on the map.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

THE FUTURE OF POLITICAL PARTIES

The air is filled with speculation on the future of our parties, particularly of the Republican Party, since the election with its sweeping mandate to the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt.

We are told by Mr. Farley that the Republican Party is dead and that the Democratic Party has a quit claim deed to the 1936 election. Senator LaFollette is reported to have said that what Wisconsin has done in the successful creation of a new party, the nation will do. Still others say that we shall gravitate into two parties, one a Conservative and the other a Liberal Party.

And all along there are Republicans clamoring for a Liberal reorganization of the Republican Party. It is very confusing.

If Mr. Roosevelt maintains dominance of the policy of the Democratic Party, any Liberal-Conservative division will leave only the Conservative sector for occupation by the Republicans, and will force any new party far to the left.

For myself, the talk of a Liberal-Conservative lineup leaves me cold. Conservative and Liberal are battered words that have lost meaning in the modern scene. Among men of intelligence today it takes a microscope to discover the difference between the two factions during a consideration of desirable social goals. Everybody, save the very old and fanatic, now know that a sense of security must be brought to the millions, that buying power must be widely spread, that an anarchic laissez faire is dead and done, and that the state must pay a very vital role in the determination of economic policy.

The only real battle-line that I see between two major parties for the next decade is the issue of the degree and manner of governmental participation in the economic direction of the nation's economic enterprise.

It will not be a battle between Liberty and Tyranny in the old sense, for only an active State can today guarantee a feasible Liberty to the masses. It will be a battle between those with a correct emphasis upon the State and those who would over-emphasize the State.

And who will be on which side is still in the lap of the gods. Copyright, 1934, McClure Newspaper Syn.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Every mail brings a letter asking what one can do with a child who has been reared in the new freedom and has imposed slavery upon his mother. My answer is, "Re-educate him to understand that he must obey."

"But obedience will destroy his initiative, give him a complex, make him a dependent, helpless individual," and so on and so on.

That is not true. The child who is not under control, his own or that of some older person, is a pathetic victim of bad upbringing. No child of tender years, and by that I mean a child under ten or thereabout, can make important decisions for himself. It is the duty of parents and teachers to lend the child the support of their wisdom, experience and authority.

Children under five must obey, must be guided and directed by others, because they are helpless. The baby must learn what obedience means by experience and his training in obedience and cooperation must be consistent and continuous until he reaches the age where his mind is matured sufficiently to make a choice with safety to himself and other people.

In trying to teach parents that authority could be tempered by affection and tenderness some schools went too far to the other side and eliminated authority altogether. That was not only misguided enthusiasm, it was cruelty to the children. No child under six years of age can be allowed to have his way with his life. His health, his character, his whole being must suffer. There is no sadder sight than a spoiled and domineering child trying to find his way to comfort and happiness.

"I reason and reason with him and it does no good. He goes right on and does what he was going to do." This authority a little boy of three. Such a child does not reason in the sense his mother means. Reasoning about cause and effect come much later in life than three years. Three Years needs to be told what to do, how to do it, when to do it, and then led into doing it so that experience teaches him that obedience is the road to happiness.

I have no fear of robbing a child of his initiative by teaching him obedience. If this work is done intelligently the child's individuality is preserved, his energy is conserved, his peace of mind is assured, his cooperation with others people is assured. With that foundation laid we can then proceed to offer him opportunities for self help, self control, and leadership. You cannot make a leader of one who has never been disciplined.

Discipline is another term that has been abused. Most people associate it with punishment. Discipline is experience that teaches one the difference between acceptable and unacceptable experiences. It may come as a natural consequence of behavior. If the child eats green apples he will be sick and so he learns about green apples. It may come by the interference of others. A child annoys other people and is isolated for the time being. He learns about consideration of other folk's feelings. Discipline is essential to the freedom of the soul. Begin early and remember that willing obedience is the corner stone of a fine character. Obedience, willing or otherwise, is essential for every child. A child is freest when he is least burdened by self.
